House To Take Step Toward Rapid Transit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sponsors predicted House passage today of a bill that could someday help create a space age, high-speed rail passenger system linking Ohio's major cities.

The chief sponsor, Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, predicted it would receive 70 to 80 votes in the 99-member chamber. He called it a vital step in planning ahead for Ohio's future transportation.

Wilkowski's bill sets up a five-member Ohio Rapid Transit Authority which, if funds become available, could exercise the power of eminent domain and cooperate with federal and private interests to get the system built. The sponsor estimated costs at about $1.5 billion, and said federal funds and state bond issue proceeds might figure in the financing.

His bill was the major item of business opening this week's House deliberations. Senators returned Monday night and voted 26-3 to revise state credit union laws. The revisions would let them increase interest charges on loans of $500 or less, but at the same time require them to carry state or federal deposit insurance.

House Insurance Chairman William E. Hinig, D-96 New Philadelphia, said he would appear today at a news conference with Insurance Director Harry V. Jump and others to discuss a departmental bill aimed at dealing with the state's medical malpractice problem. Hinig's House committee plans to begin hearing testimony Wednesday.

Otherwise, Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, introduced a measure that would let hotels in Ohio receive permits to sell liquor on Sundays without presently required local option elections. "Hotels in the dry areas of the state are dying on Sundays," he said, adding that the legislature already decided when it permitted limited Sunday sales "that isn't so much a moral issue any more."

Sen. Robert E. O'Shaughnessy, D-15 Columbus, sponsored the credit union bill that lets them increase their maximum interest on loans of $500 or less from 1 per cent to 1½ per cent monthly, or from 12 to 18 per cent annually. He said this still would keep them well below the 24 per cent credit card purchases, and the more than 27 per cent the state permits small loan companies to charge.

The bill otherwise permits credit union shareholders to vote by mail as an alternative to giving their proxies, and permits groups of persons with a "common bond," including geography, to become group members of credit unions.

Ohio has about 750 credit unions operating under federal or state charters, and their members combined have about $1.5 billion on deposit, O'Shaughnessy said. He said his bill, which now goes to the House, is needed to make credit unions "more viable and competitive in today's economic situation."

In other developments, the Senate Health and Retirement Committee recommended passage Monday night of a resolution establishing a joint committee to investigate conditions in Ohio's nursing homes.

The same committee also recommended legislation permitting teachers to receive up to five years' retirement credit for time they taught in non-public schools.

In addition to Meshel's Sunday liquor bill, the Senate received proposals to:

- Permit school boards to adopt more flexible school attendance schedules for high school pupils.
- Liberalize survivors' benefits under the Public Employees Retirement System.
- Provide municipal policemen with retirement credit for time served as township park district police.
- Permit adopted persons, after they reach the age of maturity, to examine their adoption records.
- Allow the State Controlling Board to charge fees for occupational and professional licenses.

Reds Gain In Indochina

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Cambodian government reportedly still held Phnom Penh today despite claims by the Khmer Rouge radio that Communist-led insurgents were "penetrating deep" into the city and occupied the airport.

In South Vietnam, fighting continued on three sides of Saigon and the Viet Cong blew up a bomb dump at the big Bien Hoa air base 15 miles north of the capital.

Cambodian troops in Phnom Penh told newsmen the insurgents were at the northern outskirts of the city but had not entered. The city was quiet and the government radio continued to broadcast.

Field reports said that the town of Takhmau six miles south of the capital was abandoned to the rebels after it came under heavy recoilless and mortar fire. At least 100 government soldiers were reported killed or wounded, and six 105mm howitzers were left behind.

Newsmen in Phnom Penh said the Khmer Rouge still held a marketplace astride the road to the airport. Reports Monday night said the government had airlifted reinforcements to the airfield to join about 1,000 troops trying to hold a line along the railroad parallel to the highway.

Sydney Schanberg of the New York Times, one of the six Americans known to have remained in Phnom Penh, said he drove through the Pochentong market and saw the rebels, but they made no effort to stop him.

Schanberg said the government defense lines were within three miles of downtown Phnom Penh at some points. But field reports indicated a lull in fighting on the city's fronts, punctuated by rocket fire.

Six rebel rockets reportedly fell on a textile mill inside the western sector of the capital, raising a cloud of black smoke visible from afar. Refugees continued to stream into the capital from the northwest, and they reported heavy rocket fire there.

Khmer Rouge broadcasts monitored in the Thai capital said the Communist-led Cambodian insurgents took the town of Prek Phneou, on Phnom Penh's northern outskirts and were advancing on a bridge less than four miles from the center of the city.

One broadcast from the insurgent station, which reportedly is located at Kratie, 110 miles northeast of Phnom

Penh, said the city "is on the point of collapse, and we nearly have liberated the entire city."

Another Khmer Rouge broadcast said the Cambodian air force pilot who bombed the military headquarters in Phnom Penh Monday landed in Khmer Rouge territory and was welcomed by the insurgents.

The government radio in Phnom Penh said Lt. Gen. Sak Suthsakhon, the head of the military junta that took over the government last weekend, had relinquished the defense ministry to Interior Minister Hou Hong so that the general could devote his full time to his job of president of the junta.

The government radio appeared to be functioning normally and closed its newscast with Buddhist prayers for the Cambodian new year in mid-April. Twenty-nine South Vietnamese airmen were reported wounded in the attack on the big Bien Hoa air base north of Saigon.

Viet Cong saboteurs slipped through the defenses during the night, planted satchel charges in a bomb dump and set off explosions that shook buildings in Saigon.

Fighting continued for the seventh day at Xuan Loc, the provincial capital 40 miles east of Saigon, but the South Vietnamese army said its troops were keeping the battle on the edges of the city and holding their own.

The Saigon command claimed that 86 North Vietnamese were killed while government casualties were only three killed and three wounded.

Viet Evacuation Plan Written Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — A combination of events is forcing the U.S. government virtually to write off hopes of evacuating up to 200,000 South Vietnamese.

U.S. officials say there is a genuine need to remove a significant number of South Vietnamese who may be in jeopardy in any Communist takeover because of their American connections. The American officials point out that "logistics and practical realities" make it a tough, if not impossible, problem.

"Unless there is a cease-fire or an agreement by the North Vietnamese army to let the South Vietnamese leave peacefully, we will have a real mess," predicted one State Department official. "And if aid is not provided by Congress, everything will get telescoped in time," he added.

In Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu has been slow to relax a ban on travel for all Vietnamese with the exception of the orphan airlift and some wives of Americans. There are reported to be several thousand Vietnamese dependents of Americans with visas to enter the United States who have not been able to obtain the required permits to leave Vietnam.

Some Americans with long experience in Vietnam say it might be necessary to make a deal with President Nguyen Van Thieu in order to get the flow of refugees started.

The nature of the deal was not made known, but in some informed groups here there is a belief that Thieu is looking on the 4,000 to 5,000 remaining Americans as hostages in order to obtain a favorable offer from the U.S.

In Congress, there are strong reservations against giving President Ford the authority to use U.S. troops if necessary to evacuate South Vietnamese refugees.

Another indicator of U.S. opinion was displayed at a recent conference here of 300 local officials from all points of the United States. The group voted 95 per cent against further military aid to Vietnam.

In addition, the rank-and-file of organized labor are beginning to inform members of Congress that they do not want a new wave of refugees coming to this country, an informed source said.

This is being done because of the present recession and unemployment approaching the 9 per cent level, the source said.

Some official circles are calling for President Ford to set up a coordinator in Saigon to process refugees with the help of the U.S. embassy on an emergency basis. They propose that the coordinator start with the dependents of Americans and a list of Vietnamese who will be given permission to leave.

It is understood here that U.S. Ambassador Graham Martin has been quietly getting American families out of Vietnam but in a way that would not create a panic on the part of the Vietnamese.

Red Cross Volunteer Session Set

A training and orientation workshop for Red Cross Volunteers will be held Saturday at 9 a.m. at the Red Cross Chapter House, 167 Watt St.

The class will be open to men, women, and teenagers who may give volunteer service at Berger Hospital, Veterans Administration Hospital, Chillicothe, and in Motor Service.

Volunteers are especially needed to cover the desk at Berger Hospital. They work about three hours in the afternoon or evening and are needed for weekend assignments.

Volunteers at the VA Hospital work with patients in Nursing Service and Occupational Therapy or may assist as hostesses in the two new out-patient clinics. Following their Red Cross Orientation, volunteers can receive their orientation of VA Service on May 12 and 19 at the Chillicothe Hospital.

The Pickaway County Chapter furnishes transportation to the Orientation and to the weekly or biweekly assignments.

The one session of Orientation qualifies the volunteer to serve with Red Cross anywhere in the world. Persons who find they have a few hours of time to give in service to others can find worthwhile opportunity as a Red Cross volunteer and are invited to attend this meeting.

Mushrooms Possibly Dangerous

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state Agriculture Department has asked all Ohio stores carrying Heritage House brand mushrooms to remove them from the shelves pending further tests for possible botulism on a can purchased in Columbus.

Agriculture Director John Stackhouse also said Monday his department has halted further shipments from warehouses until the results of laboratory tests by the federal Food and Drug Administration are known.

Stackhouse and state Health Director John Ackerman said preliminary tests in Health Department laboratories found possible botulism contamination in an eight-ounce can of Heritage House brand mushroom stems and pieces.

While the FDA conducts further tests, the officials urged that consumers with cans bearing the code numbers LK 403 P-1 refrain from eating the contents.

The can was brought to the Health Department by a supermarket employee who noticed it was bulging and its contents had an offensive odor, the officials said.

The mushrooms are packed by the Oxford Royal Canning Co. of Kelton, Pa., the said.

REFERRING to schools again, large rooms with free-span roofs are particularly dangerous during tornadoes, because of the likelihood of roof failure, and subsequent showering of debris on people huddled below. Roofs of rooms such as gymnasiums, cafeterias and auditoriums fail because of aerodynamic "lifting" by winds passing over the roof plus "ballooning" from within caused by inrushing air through openings in an exterior wall — a dynamic duo of destruction.

The "wind tunnel" effect occurs in corridors and spaces in line with the tornado's travel. Glass, gravel, dirt and all kinds of debris will actually move horizontally through these tunnels. It's vital for people caught in such locations to sit, crouch, or lie flat and cover their heads. Avoid using corridors with openings facing south or west. Interior corridors facing north are usually safest, followed by those facing east. Also stay away from doorways opening south or west.

RESIDENTS of the Westfall School District are reminded that registration will be held Friday for all children entering kindergarten this fall and for those children planning to enter the first grade who were not enrolled in kindergarten this year. The hours of registration are 12-4 p.m. at the Jackson Elementary and Darby Elementary Schools. Parents must present a birth certificate and a record of immunization for each child being registered.

CIRCLEVILLE Police are holding about a dozen auto license tags that have been turned in as lost plates.

Persons who lost their 1974 tags should call police headquarters, 474-8888, to check the inventory. It will save them from having to purchase new plates for 1975 along with the sticker decal.

Utility Fuel Adjustment Clauses Probed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Automatic fuel adjustments, which are passed on virtually unregulated by utilities to their customers, have come under the scrutiny of a special legislative energy committee.

David C. Sweet, a member of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, told the committee Monday that major gas and electric companies passed on to consumers $524 million in fuel adjustments last year, over and above regular rates.

"The bulk of the burden has been placed on the consumer as a result of the pass-through on coal costs," Sweet said at a hearing of the Joint Select Committee on Energy.

The 16-member bipartisan panel was created by the legislature last month to study fuel costs and sources and the ratemaking procedures of the PUCO.

Sweet said the commission exercised little control over the fuel escalator clause. Utilities must file reports detailing their increased costs and the commission is undertaking "spot audits" to verify coal prices, he said.

Other than that, a percentage pass-through to the consumer is "automatic," Sweet said.

The commissioners contend that PUCO would be flooded with rate increase cases if the escalator clause were abandoned.

And there is some question as to the extent of their authority to refuse applications for the automatic increases. "I don't know whether we could at our discretion say 'no more fuel adjustments,'" PUCO chairman Luther Heckman said.

Sally Bloomfield, the third member of the regulatory agency, said the PUCO had been assured that companies have been paying increased costs for coal, there's no question about that at all."

Nevertheless, Sen. Oakley C. Collins, R-17 Ironton, requested that the commissioners provide legislators with comparative market prices of coal before, during and after the November strike by mine workers.

"Is there anybody monitoring their (utilities) purchase prices?" asked Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown. He was told the PUCO was currently conducting three spot audits. But the commissioners noted that they had no authority to look at the books of coal companies.

Rep. Thomas J. Carney, D-71

Boardman, chairman of the select committee, said the fuel escalator clause was the "major bone of contention with the public." But he complained that "consumers are not really participating" in the rate-making process.

In fact, John D. Borrows, head of PUCO's utility section, acknowledged that public testimony at regular rate hearings had little bearing on the setting of rates.

"A lot of the public testimony does not concern the issues that the legislature says we have to look at when we make a ratemaking decision," he said.

"That is one of the reasons why thousands of people in a community can object and they are just put aside," concluded Rep. John P. Wargo, D-12 Lisbon.

Carney said it was too early to tell whether modification of the fuel adjustment clause would be part of the committee's package of recommendations, which are due by Oct. 15. But he readily agreed: "that's going to be an issue."

The committee has asked officials of the Environmental Protection Agency to appear Thursday.

Ford To Invoke Emergency Action Against Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is expected to invoke emergency action to block a nationwide strike threatened Friday against the railroads by the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks.

Under procedures of the Railway Labor Act, the creation of a Presidential Emergency Board would automatically delay any strike for 60 days. Sources said Ford is expected to act Wednesday.

The union is legally free to walk out at 12:01 a.m. Friday unless the President intervenes.

A strike would affect all of the nation's major railroads.

BRAC President C. L. Dennis announced Monday that union members were voting overwhelmingly to walk out. He said a strike "appears to be the only avenue for settling this already lengthy dispute."

Federal mediators have tried since January to resolve contract differences between the union and the National Railway Labor Conference, the industry's bargaining arm. However, there have been no reports of progress.

In a statement, Dennis called management's response to the union's bargaining goals "neither realistic nor reasonable," and said the industry's counterproposal was "so extreme that it would drive this industry and its workers back into the 19th century."

BRAC and four other unions have refused to go along with a three-year contract accepted earlier by seven other railway unions.

The pact provides wage and benefit increases totaling 41 per cent over three years. Dennis has said his members need more to offset inflation.

Sources said another issue standing in the way of a settlement is BRAC's demand for guarantees against layoffs.

Dennis said preliminary results of the strike vote showed members voting 85-90 per cent in favor of a strike. Final voting results are expected Thursday.

In other economic developments:

—The Labor Department said men and teen-agers bore the brunt of unemployment over the past year while employment levels of women remained steady.

The government said 29.8 million women were employed in the first quarter of 1975, the same as a year ago, while employment level of adult men and teen-agers fell 1.3 million and 500,000, respectively.

Analysts with the Bureau of Labor Statistics said the recession has had more impact on blue-collar jobs, which are held mostly by men.

—The stock market turned in a strong performance Monday following a government report that retail inventories fell sharply in February.

This was taken as another sign that economic recovery may be forthcoming because it means manufacturing activity might pick up to replace the inventories. The Dow Jones industrial average rose 17.45 to 806, the first time this index has closed above 800 since last July.

Boardman, chairman of the select committee, said the fuel escalator clause was the "major bone of contention with the public." But he complained that "consumers are not really participating" in the rate-making process.

And there is some question as to the extent of their authority to refuse applications for the automatic increases. "I don't know whether we could at our discretion say 'no more fuel adjustments,'" PUCO chairman Luther Heckman said.

Sally Bloomfield, the third member of the regulatory agency, said the PUCO had been assured that companies have been paying increased costs for coal, there's no question about that at all."

Nevertheless, Sen. Oakley C. Collins, R-17 Ironton, requested that the commissioners provide legislators with comparative market prices of coal before, during and after the November strike by mine workers.

"Is there anybody monitoring their (utilities) purchase prices?" asked Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown. He was told the PUCO was currently conducting three spot audits. But the commissioners noted that they had no authority to look at the books of coal companies.

NEW YORK (AP) — Profit taking sidetracked the stock market's week-long rally today, leaving prices mixed in heavy trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 64 points over the last five trading days, was off .16 at 806.79 at noon today. But gainers maintained a moderate lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said it was logical for the market to encounter some technical resistance after the extremely sharp advance it had made since early last week.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index climbed .34 to 82.58.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks edged up .04 to 45.37.

April Grand Jury Returns 15 Bills

The April term of Grand Jury met in its first session Monday. The grand jury examined over 12 witnesses on 15 cases and returned 15 indictments.

Judge William Ammer appointed Eleanor A. Stocklin forelady and Mary Lou Maxson deputy forelady. Other members of the grand jury are Ted L. Sims, Larry E. Stout, Marilyn L. Wolfe, Roderick Lynn Shasteen, Patricia Ann Karshner, Robert Clayton Duvall and Luella Iona Bolender. Doris M. Neff, Ralph Waldo Strous and Marilyn Bernice Wise were drawn as alternates.

The grand jury examined the jail in the morning and recommended that more men be employed by the sheriff's department and that ventilation be improved on the first floor area.

Ronald Duane Lyons, Route 1, Lockbourne, was indicted by the grand jury for escape. The original charge was filed by Sheriff's Deputy Lawrence Holt.

A Columbus man, Donald Smith Dixon, was indicted for breaking and entering and grand theft at the William F. Weimer residence at Route 2, Orient.

Facing an indictment of possession of criminal tools is James Edward Skinner, Anderson, S.C.

Wade Rondo Price, Columbus, was indicted for carrying a concealed weapon. The gun which he was allegedly carrying was loaded with five .38 caliber shells.

Two charges were filed by the grand jury against John F. VanHoose, Route 2, Ashville. VanHoose was indicted on a count of passing a bad check at Webster's Carry Out in the amount of $10.

The charge is a fourth degree felony since the defendant was previously convicted of larceny by trick. The other indictment against VanHoose was for passing a bad check in the amount of $11.45 at Webster's Carry Out.

The grand jury indicted Robert A. Sering, Crawfordville, Ind. for kidnapping Carol Sue Dale from Boyer's Restaurant. Sering was also indicted for aggravated burglary and grand theft at Miss Dale's apartment at 202 E. Franklin St.

Alex Charles Hopson, Columbus, is charged with grand larceny of two motorcycles which he allegedly stole from Robert Norris doing business as Bob's Harley Davidson Motor Sales. The total amount of the motorcycles was estimated at $3,750. Hopson was also indicted for breaking and entering the same place of business.

The grand jury also returned three secret indictments.

Connally Denies Bribery Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally faces cross-examination after testifying that he did not ask for or receive any payoffs from his accuser Jake Jacobsen.

The cross-examination today comes after Connally took the stand late Monday to deny flatly that he had taken a bribe. He testified after a line-up of character witnesses swore to his reputation for honesty and integrity, and after three of his former employees

State Income Tax Deadline Tonight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About a million Ohioans have until midnight tonight to file their state income tax returns.

The state tax division said a total of about four million returns were expected to be filed this year and that as of Monday, close to three million had been returned.

"We thought people would be pushing for refunds, but it didn't occur," said state tax administrator A.J. Catanzaro.

Catanzaro said the division anticipates receiving between 700,000 and 800,000 returns by the midnight deadline.

He said district offices in major metropolitan areas would stay open until 8 p.m. to handle the last-minute rush and post offices were gearing up to handle the flood of mailed returns.

Any envelope bearing an April 15 postmark would be considered to have met the deadline, he said.

So far, the income tax division has processed about 1.5 million returns and refunded almost $29.3 million to taxpayers.

"The average size of the refunds so far this year is $19.66," Catanzaro said. "That's about 15 cents more than the average refund last year. But that could go up if some of those people requesting big-sized refunds are waiting until the last minute."

He said the total number of returns received this year is up 100,000 from the same time last year.

But, he added, "you can't consider that very significant, because we're geared to handle about 40,000 forms a day."

Last year, there were a total of about 3.8 million returns-200,000 less than are expected this year.

Catanzaro said that filers who miss the deadline are subject to a penalty of 5 per cent a month on any taxes due, with a maximum of 25 per cent of any money unpaid.

There is also an interest charge of 6 per cent a year on the unpaid money.

He said taxpayers with a federal deadline extension are also automatically granted a state extension, but are still subject to the 6 per cent a year interest charge.

Taxpayers could speed up their refunds and save the state money by using the gummed address labels attached to their income tax booklet.

"About 44 per cent of taxpayers don't use these labels," Catanzaro said, "but the labels can cut weeks off the time required to process refunds."

Judge Restrains Mine Strikers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge Gerald Weber Monday issued a temporary restraining order aimed at halting wildcat strikes plaguing coal mining operations in eastern Ohio and northern West Virginia. Weber scheduled a hearing April 21.

Police List Ways To Stop Obscene Calls

Circleville subscribers to the General Telephone Co. service have been hard-hit recently by an outbreak of obscene phone calls, according to Circleville Police Sgt. Larry Pontious.

The department has investigated 15 complaints of obscene calls since April 1, he said. A total of 51 were investigated in 1974.

Sgt. Pontious suggests that persons should immediately hang-up their phones after they realize that a call is obscene. If the person doesn't listen or try to talk back, the caller will usually not try again.

If more than a single call is received, persons should have a notebook and pencil by their telephones to record the exact date and time of the calls, the conversation, and a general description of the voice.

Small whistles may also be used to blow into the mouthpiece of the phone during an obscene call, he said.

All obscene calls should be reported to the police.

If a number of calls are received and can be verified by police reports, the police and telephone company may recommend that a line trap be installed on the telephone. This device can be used to trace the call to its originating point.

The names of persons receiving the calls and the context of the conversation will be regarded as confidential material by The Herald.

Auto Stolen While Owner Is In Jail

Circleville Police are investigating three incidents of vandalism and five theft reports, including a stolen car.

Charles Williams, 290 Crites Rd., told police that his 1968 Chevrolet was stolen from an E. Main St. parking place sometime between Friday and Monday of last week.

Williams, after parking the four-door Bel Air station wagon Friday, was arrested by Circleville Police on an intoxication charge 3:30 a.m. Friday.

He was bonded out of jail 2:30 p.m. Friday and reported the car missing 8 p.m.

It is valued at $700. Thieves broke into the High St. Elementary School, 200 E. High St., Monday night or Tuesday morning, according to John Sabine, a custodian there.

Circleville Police Ptl. Ron Thompson found that entry was gained by reaching in through a five-inch circular break in the left side door glass on the northeast side of the school to operate the door handle.

The school office was entered in the same manner, he said.

A soft drink machine in the office was pried open by the thieves and about 75-cents was taken. Thieves also took about $2 in change from the teachers' coffee fund.

Ptl. Thompson theorized that the break-in and theft was committed by juveniles because of the height and size of a hole in the glass.

He checked with no results all the fourth, fifth, and sixth grade boys in the school Tuesday morning for cuts after discovering blood on the floor in the office.

Marvin Rowland, 161 E. Mill St., told police that thieves took a 10-month-old Walker Hound puppy from his back yard Sunday or Monday.

The pup, valued at $300, was chained in the yard prior to the theft. It has a white body and brown head and a collar with Mr. Rowland's Route 1, McArthur address.

Thieves took a red flashing light from the home of Ruth Porter, 143 Pleasant St., sometime last weekend. The light, valued at $200, was mounted on the alley wall.

David Yates, of Yates Motor Co., 1220 S. Court St., told police that thieves removed a dealer's license tag from a car parked at his lot last weekend.

Chris Evans, 144 Cottage Hill, told police that vandals broke the back window from his car Monday and Marvin Arledge, 148 Cottage Hill, reported that the windshield on his car was cracked.

Thieves or vandals inserted a metal strip into the door lock of a car owned by Richard Warner, lot 22, Riffle Trailer Court.

The charge is a fourth degree felony since the defendant was previously convicted of larceny by trick. The other indictment against VanHoose was for passing a bad check in the amount of $11.45 at Webster's Carry Out.

The grand jury indicted Robert A. Sering, Crawfordville, Ind. for kidnapping Carol Sue Dale from Boyer's Restaurant. Sering was also indicted for aggravated burglary and grand theft at Miss Dale's apartment at 202 E. Franklin St.

Alex Charles Hopson, Columbus, is charged with grand larceny of two motorcycles which he allegedly stole from Robert Norris doing business as Bob's Harley Davidson Motor Sales. The total amount of the motorcycles was estimated at $3,750. Hopson was also indicted for breaking and entering the same place of business.

The grand jury also returned three secret indictments.

Connally Denies Bribery Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally faces cross-examination after testifying that he did not ask for or receive any payoffs from his accuser Jake Jacobsen.

The cross-examination today comes after Connally took the stand late Monday to deny flatly that he had taken a bribe. He testified after a line-up of character witnesses swore to his reputation for honesty and integrity, and after three of his former employees

State Income Tax Deadline Tonight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About a million Ohioans have until midnight tonight to file their state income tax returns.

The state tax division said a total of about four million returns were expected to be filed this year and that as of Monday, close to three million had been returned.

"We thought people would be pushing for refunds, but it didn't occur," said state tax administrator A.J. Catanzaro.

Catanzaro said the division anticipates receiving between 700,000 and 800,000 returns by the midnight deadline.

He said district offices in major metropolitan areas would stay open until 8 p.m. to handle the last-minute rush and post offices were gearing up to handle the flood of mailed returns.

Any envelope bearing an April 15 postmark would be considered to have met the deadline, he said.

So far, the income tax division has processed about 1.5 million returns and refunded almost $29.3 million to taxpayers.

"The average size of the refunds so far this year is $19.66," Catanzaro said. "That's about 15 cents more than the average refund last year. But that could go up if some of those people requesting big-sized refunds are waiting until the last minute."

He said the total number of returns received this year is up 100,000 from the same time last year.

But, he added, "you can't consider that very significant, because we're geared to handle about 40,000 forms a day."

Last year, there were a total of about 3.8 million returns-200,000 less than are expected this year.

Catanzaro said that filers who miss the deadline are subject to a penalty of 5 per cent a month on any taxes due, with a maximum of 25 per cent of any money unpaid.

There is also an interest charge of 6 per cent a year on the unpaid money.

He said taxpayers with a federal deadline extension are also automatically granted a state extension, but are still subject to the 6 per cent a year interest charge.

Taxpayers could speed up their refunds and save the state money by using the gummed address labels attached to their income tax booklet.

"About 44 per cent of taxpayers don't use these labels," Catanzaro said, "but the labels can cut weeks off the time required to process refunds."

Judge Restrains Mine Strikers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge Gerald Weber Monday issued a temporary restraining order aimed at halting wildcat strikes plaguing coal mining operations in eastern Ohio and northern West Virginia. Weber scheduled a hearing April 21.

Police List Ways To Stop Obscene Calls

Circleville subscribers to the General Telephone Co. service have been hard-hit recently by an outbreak of obscene phone calls, according to Circleville Police Sgt. Larry Pontious.

The department has investigated 15 complaints of obscene calls since April 1, he said. A total of 51 were investigated in 1974.

Sgt. Pontious suggests that persons should immediately hang-up their phones after they realize that a call is obscene. If the person doesn't listen or try to talk back, the caller will usually not try again.

If more than a single call is received, persons should have a notebook and pencil by their telephones to record the exact date and time of the calls, the conversation, and a general description of the voice.

Small whistles may also be used to blow into the mouthpiece of the phone during an obscene call, he said.

All obscene calls should be reported to the police.

If a number of calls are received and can be verified by police reports, the police and telephone company may recommend that a line trap be installed on the telephone. This device can be used to trace the call to its originating point.

The names of persons receiving the calls and the context of the conversation will be regarded as confidential material by The Herald.

Auto Stolen While Owner Is In Jail

Circleville Police are investigating three incidents of vandalism and five theft reports, including a stolen car.

Charles Williams, 290 Crites Rd., told police that his 1968 Chevrolet was stolen from an E. Main St. parking place sometime between Friday and Monday of last week.

Williams, after parking the four-door Bel Air station wagon Friday, was arrested by Circleville Police on an intoxication charge 3:30 a.m. Friday.

He was bonded out of jail 2:30 p.m. Friday and reported the car missing 8 p.m.

It is valued at $700. Thieves broke into the High St. Elementary School, 200 E. High St., Monday night or Tuesday morning, according to John Sabine, a custodian there.

Circleville Police Ptl. Ron Thompson found that entry was gained by reaching in through a five-inch circular break in the left side door glass on the northeast side of the school to operate the door handle.

The school office was entered in the same manner, he said.

A soft drink machine in the office was pried open by the thieves and about 75-cents was taken. Thieves also took about $2 in change from the teachers' coffee fund.

Ptl. Thompson theorized that the break-in and theft was committed by juveniles because of the height and size of a hole in the glass.

He checked with no results all the fourth, fifth, and sixth grade boys in the school Tuesday morning for cuts after discovering blood on the floor in the office.

Marvin Rowland, 161 E. Mill St., told police that thieves took a 10-month-old Walker Hound puppy from his back yard Sunday or Monday.

The pup, valued at $300, was chained in the yard prior to the theft. It has a white body and brown head and a collar with Mr. Rowland's Route 1, McArthur address.

Thieves took a red flashing light from the home of Ruth Porter, 143 Pleasant St., sometime last weekend. The light, valued at $200, was mounted on the alley wall.

David Yates, of Yates Motor Co., 1220 S. Court St., told police that thieves removed a dealer's license tag from a car parked at his lot last weekend.

Chris Evans, 144 Cottage Hill, told police that vandals broke the back window from his car Monday and Marvin Arledge, 148 Cottage Hill, reported that the windshield on his car was cracked.

Thieves or vandals inserted a metal strip into the door lock of a car owned by Richard Warner, lot 22, Riffle Trailer Court.

Auglaize Man Heads Farm Bureau

WAPAKONETA, Ohio (AP) — Wallace Hirschfeld travels an even 100 miles these days from his Auglaize County farmhouse to the Statehouse in Columbus to help Ohio's farmers.

He travels those miles in both directions as president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, the state's biggest farm and agribusiness organization.

Hirschfeld takes over the presidency at a time when membership is approaching an alltime high. At last count, there were 62,630 family members.

Hirschfeld is a Mercer County native whose father moved to Auglaize County in 1934. He and his sons, Bryan and Erik, farm 180 owned acres and 220 rented acres 6½ miles northwest of New Bremen. Their cropping amounts to corn, soybeans and wheat in a three-year rotation.

Their livestock enterprise amounts to feeding out between 1,000 and 1,400 hogs a year. The hogs come onto Hirschfeld land as feeder pigs. Hirschfeld became president of the federation when Leonard Schnell of Apple Creek, a Wayne County beef-grain farmer, resigned following his nomination as a director of Nationwide Insurance Cos.

Land Use Bills No Cure-All For Nation's Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — The once-golden Santa Clara Valley south of San Francisco is filled now with a maze of factories and suburbs. Its smog is a landmark for sailors off the California coast.

East of the Golden Gate, industrial Oakland wafts its polluted air across San Francisco Bay.

North of the city, the suburbs are marching up to the Napa Valley wine country.

And in Washington, politicians and lobbyists argue over the merits of proposals that the federal government set up a system to plan the nation's future growth.

Would land use legislation solve all the problems of a sprawling nation, redesigning late 20th century America into a workable community, with the gears of urban life, suburban development, agriculture and conservation all meshing together?

That is the long-range goal of land use planning, as envisioned by one of its leading advocates here, Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz.

But Bryan Patchen, a member of the National Association of Home Builders land use and development staff, insists that land use legislation guarantees no such future for the United States.

San Jose, Calif., in the heart of the Santa Clara Valley, would not necessarily look any different if land use legislation had been in effect before it underwent its terrific building boom, Patchen said.

"The irony is that the public is looking at land use legislation as a cure-all, but sprawl is planned for, by zoning, by subdivision regulations," he said.

Indeed, as the home builders' group defines its ideal land use legislation, each local jurisdiction would determine the use of the land within its borders, with the federal government setting broad policy and the states guaranteeing that local decisions are regionally coordinated.

Bills to involve the federal government in state and local land use planning have been introduced in Congress for several years, but none has been enacted.

Udall re-introduced land use planning legislation in the House on Feb. 20. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., the issue's leading proponent in the Senate, re-introduced it there on March 6.

While critics of land use planning legislation say such planning should not be conducted on a level higher than that of any one community, the measure's supporters point to current problems to bolster their arguments that low-level jurisdictions have not done the job.

Suburban sprawl, congested freeways, overloaded sewer systems, and all the other symptoms of unplanned growth arose, they say, because no one with greater authority than the individual municipality stopped to take a broad overview of the expanding subdivision known as the 20th century United States.

"The fact that zoning is often delegated to the smallest unit of government precludes effective treatment of major largescale land issues having regional or statewide impact," Lance Marston, director of the Interior Department's Office of Land Use and Water Resources Planning, said in a recent speech.

"Highways, housing, and recreation planners are all doing their things, but there isn't anything pulling these things together, looking at the regional consequences of large-scale development," said one Interior Department official.

The American Institute of Architects has taken a broad overview of the need for land use planning, calling for a revision in most governmental organizations dealing with development.

"We have seen the chaos that the process we work in has created," said Michael Barker, the organization's administrator for environment and design. "The local governments haven't distinguished themselves by their interest in the public at large rather than their own small constituency."

Nineteen states already have land use plans in effect, covering certain critical uses and areas, with seven states employing regulatory programs.

Just as Udall is motivated in his fight by a fear of an army of bulldozers marching across the nation's woods, fields, prairies and deserts, his critics fuel their arguments with predictions that the progress and development of the United States will be smothered under red tape if the federal government moves full speed ahead into land use planning.

"If there are local, county, state and federal regulations, by the time builders get to the federal level it's that much more red tape and that means time, and wasted time is wasted money," said Richard M. Gauch, the National Association of Home Builders' land use planning expert.

Rep. Sam Steiger, R-Ariz., agrees, insisting that federal land use planning would interfere in all segments of the economy.

"Utility companies are concerned because it would be more difficult to get a plant siting. Oil companies feel it would be harder to drill. Labor is concerned over a slowdown in construction," he said.

But Udall insists that only "a very small federal bureaucracy" would be needed.

"All the feds will do is pass out the money, to save billions of dollars we now use to subsidize sprawl," he said.

The federal government's involvement in land use planning is already widespread. Through Department of Housing and Urban Development flood insurance regulations, Environmental Protection Agency controls, and agriculture programs, to name a few, the federal government is constantly making decisions about how land can be used, and is constantly requiring the users of that land to seek federal approval.

"It would be better all around to have the decisions put into a national framework," said Dallas Miner of the Urban Land Institute. "This would ease for the builder-developer the maze of federal regulations. Perhaps a national land use approach would be the starting point for simplifying these problems. It may be step one in deciding some ground rules."

An Interior Department official,

familiar with government policy relating to land use planning, agreed that a good bill could simplify a builder's red tape battle.

"Look at the builder trying to get eight permits," he said. "This could bring about a clearing house so he gets just one permit."

"All the feds will do is pass out the money, to save billions of dollars we now use to subsidize sprawl," he said.

The federal government's involvement in land use planning is already widespread. Through Department of Housing and Urban Development flood insurance regulations, Environmental Protection Agency controls, and agriculture programs, to name a few, the federal government is constantly making decisions about how land can be used, and is constantly requiring the users of that land to seek federal approval.

"It would be better all around to have the decisions put into a national framework," said Dallas Miner of the Urban Land Institute. "This would ease for the builder-developer the maze of federal regulations. Perhaps a national land use approach would be the starting point for simplifying these problems. It may be step one in deciding some ground rules."

An Interior Department official,

familiar with government policy relating to land use planning, agreed that a good bill could simplify a builder's red tape battle.

"Look at the builder trying to get eight permits," he said. "This could bring about a clearing house so he gets just one permit."

Signs Of Recovery

Periods of economic imbalances provide ample opportunities for bad guesswork on methods of recovery, or even forays into demagoguery for those so inclined. The proof is in the results, and that alone separates the wheat from the chaff.

Throughout the recession, Treasury Secretary William Simon has held fast to his belief that a slow and measured recovery is the best way to keep the cycle from repeating itself. He has been attacked harshly at times for not advocating stronger measures—particularly in regards to priming public spending programs.

Simon's rationale remains constant. With the nation facing its largest budget deficit in history, adding to the red ink will only fuel a new round of inflation, one which conceivably could be worse than the last one. As we have learned with some pain, high inflation is followed by a return swing of the pendulum in the opposite direction.

Despite a national unemployment rate approaching 0 per cent, there are unmistakable signs that the recession is bottoming, as Simon said it would, with recovery forces beginning to regroup.

Consider:
1. The rapid decline of inflation over the last six months.

2. The easing of credit, marked by a sharp drop in interest rates and more funds available for investment.

3. For the first time in six months new orders for manufactured goods are increasing.

4. Rising inventories, responsible in large part for increased unemployment, have stabilized and in some important instances, declined.

All of these signs point to recovery. Not in every industry, certainly, and there is still the huge deficit for fiscal 1976 to cross. But if it is results which count, Simon's predictions of six months ago and more recently are now showing substance in the statistics.

When It Sizzled

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — PEOPLE — PLACES

When President Nixon was in Saigon several years ago to confer with President Thieu at Thieu's palace, the accompanying American reporters, cameramen and TV people were not permitted to set up a press room inside. Nor were they allowed to leave the guarded grounds during the nearly three-hour meeting of the two heads of state.

It was blisteringly hot with little or no shade, and no place to sit down except on the grass. The Air France-owned Caravelle Hotel, where a number of us had stayed from time to time during the war, was invitingly visible a few blocks away — especially its rooftop air-conditioned restaurant and bar. But we were not permitted to go there that day.

On the sizzling palace lawn, as the small talk shrank smaller, a guy studied the facade of the palace — now familiar to millions of Americans as a result of photos of it in the wake of the aerial attack on it by a jet from Thieu's own air force. It was a curious design, walls made up of giant pillars that resemble wasp-waisted women.

"What would you say that architectural period is?" The guy asked veteran Washington correspondent Phil Potter.

"Early coup d'etat," Phil said.

Chiang Kai-shek was a benevolent dictator, as dictators go. Over his long span on the China mainland and later Taiwan, as head of the ruling Kuomintang party, he probably killed or politically imprisoned only a few more foes than, say, Castro. In World War II councils involving the leaders, he was more highly regarded by Roosevelt and Churchill than was DeGaulle, perhaps because he was less demanding.

Chiang was juggled by a lot of historic American figures during the years: Vinegar Joe Stilwell, George C. Marshall, Al Wedemeyer, Pat Hurley, Claire Chennault and many others. He got along well with everybody except Stilwell. He asked Washington to get Vinegar off his back. Marshall apparently persuaded him to believe for a time in 1945-46 that he and Mao Tse-tung should get together and have one big happy China — part Kuomintang, part Communist, part Democratic. Mao chased Chiang to Taiwan (Formosa) in 1949.

From that island, bristling with U.S.

provided armor (and a flight of CIA U-2 planes used for spying on mainland China) Chiang periodically "ran" for office on the pledge that he would lead his small forces across the 100 miles of the Straits of Formosa and rout Mao's 800,000,000 people. His last testament called for his Nationalist Chinese to gird themselves for that high adventure. He never seemed to understand that if he tried to make good on his brave pledge, it would not be the Chinese Communists who would stop him; it would be the Americans, who gave him the hardware in the first place and then thought better of it.

What happens now is anybody's guess. The Shanghai Declaration by President Nixon and Chou En-lai (and Henry Kissinger) accepts the principle that there is only one China, not two. The letter of the document is fuzzy; the spirit quite clear. What we and Peking seemed to have agreed upon was that one day in some not too distant future the Old Generalissimo would die and, by osmosis or something akin, the Chinese would be one huge people again. Native Taiwanese, who didn't invite Chiang to set up his government there, might be happy over that. They'd apply immediately for membership as a sovereign state within the UN, and be instantly accredited to receive its many handouts.

Former Gov. Ronald Reagan told a British TV audience that the reluctance of the U.S. Congress to try to reverse the tide of events in South Vietnam is "the most irresponsible action of the Congress in the last 100 years of our history."

Ronnie stopped short of offering to lead an army of British volunteers to the barricades of Saigon. Probably just as well.

NEW YORK (AP) — Seldom has there been such a solid consensus on the future of the economy as the one that now exists. Almost all forecasters see the likelihood or the probability of a recovery later this year.

Two more important forecasts were added over the weekend, by the First National City Bank and the Conference Board, a nonprofit research and education organization supported mainly by business.

The Conference Board proclaimed: "With the expected stimulation a tax cut will provide, the odds are now nearly 100 per cent for a recovery in the final quarter."

Even before the tax cut, the board's economists felt that several factors were combining to tilt the odds in favor of recovery: declining rates of inflation, liquidation of inventories, lower cost and more plentiful credit.

Stanley Reber, director of business analysis for the board, notes that wholesale prices fell at an annual rate of 6.2 per cent in the three months ending with February, compared with a 35 per cent jump in the July-September period.

Reber believes that inflation likely will remain above 5 per cent forever. But he adds that the recent monthly figures on wholesale and retail prices indicate that double-digit inflation is dead.

The reduction in inventories, largely built up in the latter part of 1974, isn't likely to be as pronounced as the drop in the inflation rate, although Reber looks for stability.

Manufacturers' inventories continued to rise in January, but the increase amounted to only $3 billion compared with $27 billion worth that accumulated in December.

The Conference Board cites the five month decline in the prime interest rate to less than 8 per cent from more than 12 per cent as the reason to be optimistic about the future economy.

Citibank, while citing some of the same reasons for its optimism, hedged a bit in comparison with the 100 per cent certainty of the Conference Board.

"A recovery is in the making for late 1975," it said, but added that "this recovery, like its predecessors, may be marred by some disappointing although short-lived setbacks."

Its economists do not fear, as many economists do, that the impact of heavy Treasury borrowing will serve to exclude private borrowers from the credit markets in 1975.

It cites as one reason for its optimism that "The counterpart of unusually heavy Treasury borrowing ... is likely to be an unusually large decline in the borrowings of households and businesses."

But it continues, "the judgement concerning the current calendar year does not necessarily hold for the longer run." As the economy recovers from the recession in 1976 and beyond, private demand for credit likely will grow.

As the economy nears full employment in 1977 or 1978, "the monetary authorities will face a painful dilemma unless the federal deficit and related Treasury borrowing diminish sufficiently."

"Everybody warned her."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

As long as I can remember my father and my mother have had colonic irrigations to "clean out the poisons in the system," they say. Now they want me to do the same thing. They read your column and I know they would be persuaded by what you say.

Mr. J.J.F., N.J.

Dear Mr. F.:
One of the most difficult problems confronting physicians is freeing people from myths and fancies.

At the turn of the century, colonic irrigations in France were rituals that no one questioned. Soon the fad spread to the United States and attracted a large group of devotees.

Regular colonic irrigations "to remove poisons" have no validity whatsoever. In fact, the indiscriminate use of enemas and colonic irrigations may, in the presence of unrecognized bowel conditions, be fraught with extreme danger.

In very specific instances, doctors will recommend an occasional irrigation, for a very specific purpose. Then, and only then, should it be done.

We have long since departed from the dependence on laxatives, enemas and colonic irrigations as the answer to all of man's ills.

I hope you can induce your parents to give up this habit. Certainly, you should not fall into the trap of perpetuating this unwise practice.

What is the best way to treat a muscle bruise? One of our children is always getting a bruise of one kind or another.

Mrs. H. G. L., Mich.

Dear Mrs. L.:
The application of cold immediately after a muscle has been hurt tends to reduce the swelling. If a tiny blood vessel has been broken the blood seeps into the fibers of the muscle and makes it tender and swollen. Cold applications will tend to stop the bleeding and minimize the discoloration.

However, after an hour or two the cold has served its function. Then, a switch to heat will lessen the pain and be helpful in absorbing the blood.

The temptation to massage an injured muscle must be resisted. Vigorous massage can start the bleeding and further injure the muscle.

Bill Eyed To Buy 121,000 New Autos For Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is considering a bill to boost employment in the depressed auto industry by having the federal government buy 121,000 new cars and trucks to replace virtually all of its nationwide fleet.

The proposal, characterized by one supporter as a "food stamp program for the automobile manufacturers," would cost $443 million. Its provisions are included in the emergency employment bill which has passed the House and is pending in the Senate.

Instead of replacing its vehicles only after six years or 60,000 miles, the government would replace all but those bought after May 1974.

But President Ford feels the measure is uneconomical, says White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen. James T. Lynn, director of the Office of Management and Budget, says the provision is one reason he would recommend the President veto the bill in its current form.

Because not all of the $443 million would be spent in the same fiscal year, administration officials are hard pressed to figure out exactly how much the measure would add to the budget deficit for fiscal 1976, which Ford has said should be limited to $60 billion.

Nessen has also complained that the bill would "take away 54,000 sales from new and used car dealers because the government, in effect, would be competing with the new and used car dealers." The number used by Nessen is the number of 2-year-old to 6-year-old cars which would be sold by GSA to make room for the new cars.

But specialists in the used car market don't share the White House concern. "My feeling is it would have little, if any, impact on the used-car market," said Harry Lawrence, the National Automobile Dealers Association official who compiles the authoritative "Blue Book" on used car prices.

Stanley Roe, a statistician for the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association, said the main reason the big purchase would be likely to have a quick impact on employment is because government cars are special orders. That means that instead of simply drawing down their sizeable inventories to fill the orders, manufacturers would have to crank up their assembly lines.

Ross County Debts OKd

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The legislature today sent to Gov. James A. Rhodes a bill permitting Ross County commissioners to pay two debts described as a moral but not a legal responsibility.

Sen. Oakley C. Collins, R-17 Ironton, said the claims, totaling about $5,200, are for two contractors who did renovation work at the County Children's Services Center.

He said the claims from the Capital Contractors, Inc., and C & J Electric Co. were not legal encumbrances because the children's center lacked authority to enter into them.

"The county said the money to pay the bills is there, there's no problem," said Collins as the Senate added its approval to the House measure 29-0.

Brown Against Registration Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio delegation to Congress received a caution from Secretary of State Ted W. Brown on Monday that a federal postcard voter registration bill now pending "may increase the potential for election fraud."

Brown also said, "I firmly believe that the federal government should not intrude into this area of state responsibility unless the states misuse their power or fail to discharge their responsibility."

Brown predicted that the bill would necessitate the keeping of at least two sets of voter registration records—one for the state and local elections and another for federal elections. "This would increase the number of registration personnel and thereby increase the expense to the taxpayer," Brown said.

President Harry Truman ordered development of the hydrogen bomb on Jan. 31, 1950.

Dedication for the new three-story mens dormitory were held at the Circleville Bible College Chapel.

Circleville Flying Association was considering forming a new "auxiliary" known as CATSUP—Committee Advocating the Suppression of Unorthodox Pilotage. Top two members would be William Clifton and Gunner Musselman, selected for their skill in flipping their light planes over while landing and taking off.

New tennis courts were erected at Ted Lewis Park. This made a total of six courts available for the players use.

Something new on the fashion scene in the line of eyewear were the "Boy Watchers." The slender sunglasses were tops with the teens because they permitted the wearer to take a good look without his eyes being seen. Girls could push them back and use them as a headband.

City Council cleared the way for future commercial facilities at the Marfield property site when they voted unanimously to rezone the area commercial. The site was expected to be the future location of the Third National Bank.

"Everybody warned her."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

As long as I can remember my father and my mother have had colonic irrigations to "clean out the poisons in the system," they say. Now they want me to do the same thing. They read your column and I know would be persuaded by what you say.

Mr. J.J.F., N.J.

Dear Mr. F.:

One of the most difficult problems confronting physicians is freeing people from myths and fancies.

At the turn of the century, colonic irrigations in France were rituals that no one questioned. Soon the fad spread to the United States and attracted a large group of devotees.

Regular colonic irrigations "to remove poisons" have no validity whatsoever. In fact, the indiscriminate use of enemas and colonic irrigations may, in the presence of unrecognized bowel conditions, be fraught with extreme danger.

In very specific instances, doctors will recommend an occasional irrigation, for a very specific purpose. Then, and only then, should it be done.

We have long since departed from the dependence on laxatives, enemas and colonic irrigations as the answer to all of man's ills.

I hope you can induce your parents to give up this habit. Certainly, you should not fall into the trap of perpetuating this unwise practice.

What is the best way to treat a muscle bruise? One of our children is always getting a bruise of one kind or another.

Mrs. H. G. L., Mich.

Dear Mrs. L.:

The application of cold immediately after a muscle has been hurt tends to reduce the swelling. If a tiny blood vessel has been broken the blood seeps into the fibers of the muscle and makes it tender and swollen. Cold applications will tend to stop the bleeding and minimize the discoloration.

However, after an hour or two the cold has served its function. Then, a switch to heat will lessen the pain and be helpful in absorbing the blood.

The temptation to massage an injured muscle must be resisted. Vigorous massage can start the bleeding and further injure the muscle.

Bill Eyed To Buy 121,000 New Autos For Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is considering a bill to boost employment in the depressed auto industry by having the federal government buy 121,000 new cars and trucks to replace virtually all of its nationwide fleet.

The proposal, characterized by one supporter as a "food stamp program for the automobile manufacturers," would cost $443 million. Its provisions are included in the emergency employment bill which has passed the House and is pending in the Senate.

Instead of replacing its vehicles only after six years or 60,000 miles, the government would replace all but those bought after May 1974.

But President Ford feels the measure is uneconomical, says White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen. James T. Lynn, director of the Office of Management and Budget, says the provision is one reason he would recommend the President veto the bill in its current form.

Because not all of the $443 million would be spent in the same fiscal year, administration officials are hard pressed to figure out exactly how much the measure would add to the budget deficit for fiscal 1976, which Ford has said should be limited to $60 billion.

Nessen has also complained that the bill would "take away 54,000 sales from new and used car dealers because the government, in effect, would be competing with the new and used car dealers." The number used by Nessen is the number of 2-year-old to 6-year-old cars which would be sold by GSA to make room for the new cars.

But specialists in the used car market don't share the White House concern. "My feeling is it would have little, if any, impact on the used-car market," said Harry Lawrence, the National Automobile Dealers Association official who compiles the authoritative "Blue Book" on used car prices.

Stanley Roe, a statistician for the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association, said the main reason the big purchase would be likely to have a quick impact on employment is because government cars are special orders. That means that instead of simply drawing down their sizeable inventories to fill the orders, manufacturers would have to crank up their assembly lines.

Ross County Debts OK'd

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The legislature today sent to Gov. James A. Rhodes a bill permitting Ross County commissioners to pay two debts described as a moral but not a legal responsibility.

Sen. Oakley C. Collins, R-17 Ironton, said the claims, totaling about $5,200, are for two contractors who did renovation work at the County Children's Services Center.

He said the claims from the Capital Contractors, Inc., and C & J Electric Co. were not legal encumbrances because the children's center lacked authority to enter into them.

"The county said the money to pay the bills is there, there's no problem," said Collins as the Senate added its approval to the House measure 29-0.

Brown Against Registration Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio delegation to Congress received a caution from Secretary of State Ted W. Brown on Monday that a federal postcard voter registration bill now pending "may increase the potential for election fraud."

Brown also said, "I firmly believe that the federal government should not intrude into this area of state responsibility unless the states misuse their power or fail to discharge their responsibility."

Brown predicted that the bill would necessitate the keeping of at least two sets of voter registration records—one for the state and local elections and another for federal elections. "This would increase the number of registration personnel and thereby increase the expense to the taxpayer," Brown said.

Studded Tires Under Attack

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Studded snow tires, which won an extra month of use in Ohio this year, can erode concrete 100 times faster than unstudded tires, a Minnesota research project reports.

Ohio highway officials now are predicting that it will take $35 million over the next 10 years to repair damage already done to roads by the tires.

And the Ohio Turnpike Commission says the turnpike will need resurfacing two years earlier than expected because of studded tires.

The tires with the little metal studs, hailed as lifesavers in the north where snow and ice cause hazardous conditions through much of the winter, are still not free of debate.

The General Assembly voted this year to extend their allowable use by a month. Today is the last day they could be used.

But the highway engineers and contractors are already beginning the battle to have the tires banned completely.

"The dollar cost of studded tire damage repair and resurfacing is going to shock a lot of people," says Leon Talbert of the Ohio Department of Transportation's research and development bureau. "Over the years the figure will be astronomical."

The tires, defended as a vital safety feature in snow country, have been analyzed by both the Minnesota Highway Department and the Ontario Ministry of Transport and Communications.

The results:

—Snow tires wear pavements significantly faster than nonstudded tires.

—The ruts left by the studded tires collect ice and snow which can't be plowed out, creating additional hazards for motorists. Water in the ruts can cause hydroplaning.

—The studded tires offer little safety gain except on glaze ice. Even then, a speed reduction of five miles per hour would have the same effect. And many motorists develop a false and unwarranted sense of security because of the tires.

—The studs lose their effectiveness as the weather gets colder, and offer no safety advantage when temperatures are below zero.

—When the ice is gone and the pavement is dry, studded tires take 27 per cent greater distances to stop than unstudded tires.

Both Minnesota and Ontario have banned studded tires.

Defenders of the studded tires note that the number of cars has increased by 400 per cent since 1945, and the cars are being driven more miles.

But opponents say the research has shown the high cost of the tires to the motorist, studded and non-studded alike.

"They do more harm than good," says Cuyahoga County Engineer Albert S. Porter. "They are simply a big ripoff of motorists."

Malpractice Insurance Pinch Brings Call For Legislation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Insurance Director Harry V. Jump and legislators from both parties called a news conference today to discuss legislation to deal with medical malpractice insurance problems in Ohio.

Rep. William E. Hinig, D-96 New Philadelphia, chairman of the House Insurance, Utilities and Financial Institutions Committee, whose panel will consider proposals, was included and named as a sponsor of legislation being proposed by the director.

Jump, who had separate medical and legal committees make recommendations to him, is expected, among other things, to call for creation of an "assigned risk pool" among the state's liability insurers.

The pool, to be known as the "joint underwriters association," would write malpractice policies for physicians and hospitals unable to obtain coverage for reasonable premiums in the open market. Even so-called "high risk" physicians would be able to obtain coverage.

Other proposals by the director call for physicians to undergo a minimum of 150 hours in "continuing education" every three years to keep their licenses renewed, limit for the amounts attorneys may charge for representing malpractice claimants and establish "peer review" boards to investigate the competency of physicians on a periodic basis.

Hinig's committee, which will begin hearings Wednesday, already has a series of bills that would encompass most of the recommendations.

Another measure before the Tuscarawas County lawmaker's panel would provide for mandatory arbitration of claims as an alternative to long and costly court suits. It would not preclude eventual litigation, however, and evidence obtained in arbitration hearings would be admissible as evidence in court.

In the wake of a decision by anesthesiologists at two Mansfield hospitals to withhold their services for lack of sufficient malpractice protection, the department was beset

Monday with a new demand for action.

Robert F. Thornton, president of the Ohio Academy of Trial Lawyers, asked the department to freeze medical malpractice premiums, effective last Jan. 1, and to require the insurance companies to provide "justification" for refusing to grant coverage dating back to January, 1974.

Vice Mayor Of Cincinnati Charged

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati Vice Mayor William Chenault said Monday he would not step down from city government following his indictment by a grand jury.

"No," said Chenault, who is acting mayor of the city while Mayor Theodore N. Berry is in Paris.

"I will not step down. In this country you are not guilty until you are proven guilty," he said.

The Charter-Democrat coalition, which controls city council, agreed that it was up to Chenault to decide whether he would step down.

Chenault, who was the subject of an investigative series by The Cincinnati Enquirer last month, was indicted on six counts Monday by the Hamilton County grand jury.

The newspaper series concerned payment of aides by Chenault. The aides claimed not to have received the salaries Chenault reportedly turned into the city treasurer's office for reimbursement.

Chenault said he had no comment on the indictments.

"It's up to the lawyers now," he said.

The six-count true bill accused the veteran councilman, who was first elected in 1969, of two felonies and four misdemeanors involving $5,911.

The felony counts were embezzling of public property and theft in office. The misdemeanor counts charged falsification of city vouchers or invoices during 1972, 1973 and 1974.

Spanish-American Vets Still Spry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The day is rapidly approaching when the ranks of America's oldest veterans, those who fought in the Spanish-American war, will dwindle to fewer than 1,000. But many are still surprisingly spry.

The Veterans Administration counted 1,098 Spanish-American war vets alive last month. That compares with 1,595 alive last July and 1,804 alive in July of 1973. There were 392,000 Americans who participated in the turn-of-the-century hostilities.

The oldest is believed to be 105-year-old Nelson Norton of Whitestown, Ind., whose 95-year-old brother, Everett, of Palestine, Ill., makes them the only known Spanish-American war brothers alive. Nelson lives with his 70-year-old daughter.

The youngest veterans of that war are probably 87 with the average around 95. There are 36 who are 100 years or older.

More than half require somebody to help them get around, but that's how the VA discovered many are still going strong.

All Spanish-American war veterans are entitled to VA pensions, and the agency set out last year to see if some who also might be entitled to a special aid-and-attendance allowance were not getting it.

Although many get that special allowance, the VA counselors found a 90-year-old vet skinning logs for two new cabins he was building at his hunting camp. He suggested he was in better shape than his visitors and got no argument on that score.

A 95-year-old brushed off VA officials, saying he is able to manage on his income, although he was worried about the state of the economy.

A 98-year-old, informed that his situation warranted an increase in his monthly stipend, turned to his wife of 59 years and said: "I'll take you dancing tonight" with the money.

The VA found one 90-year-old still working. He operates an elevator.

Another, age 98, had just returned from 18 holes of golf. He explained it helped restore his strength after a series of heart attacks and he mentioned that he is still "dating."

Springfield's Busting Out All Over

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — The next time someone tells you he's from Springfield, don't take it for granted that he means Illinois. According to the 1975 Rand McNally Road Atlas, there's a city or town named Springfield in 20 states of the U.S., the most for any one name. The runner up is Washington. There's one of those in 17 states, in addition to the one in the District of Columbia.

VA counselors shared lunch with a 95-year-old veteran who had given up his heating business only four years earlier. After lunch, he crushed an empty beer can in his hand.

All the states have Spanish-American war veterans, with California having the most by far, with 180.

Alaska, Delaware, Vermont and

New Mexico each has only one Spanish-American war veteran still alive, according to VA records. Florida, with 80, has the second highest total behind California.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Wants 'Obey' Out Of Ceremony

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in response to "Small Town, Mo." who called the Protestant clergy man "thoughtless" for offering prayer in the name of Jesus Christ when there were people of other faiths present. And you said, "You make a good point!"

Lady I am a Christian, and as far as I am concerned, Christianity is the only religion in the world.

If you were invited to give invocation at a public meeting, would you sit down for a couple of hours and make a study of all the religions that could possibly be represented in your community, and then make up a prayer that could in no way offend anybody?

There is no possible way! Sign me, "R.D. IN PANAMA CITY, FLA." or "LOVE IN CHRIST"

DEAR LOVE: If I were invited to give invocation at a public meeting attended by various faiths, I would offer a prayer in the name of "God, Our heavenly Father, the Lord," or "The Supreme Being." That should satisfy everyone.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know where to go with the problem so I'm turning to you. My son, an only child, is 4-years-old. He's a normal, healthy boy, but I'm afraid he won't be for long if something isn't done about his eating habits and soon.

For the last two months he has been living on peanut butter and jelly sandwiches and chocolate chip ice cream. That is all. He refuses to touch milk, orange juice, cereal or vegetables.

I called my pediatrician and he said,

"Don't force him to eat anything he doesn't like, and don't worry, he won't starve. And I have to go now because I have a boy in my office who has a nickle up his nose." Then he hung up.

Abby, can a child possibly live on a diet of peanut butter and jelly sandwiches and chocolate chip ice cream? Can you suggest some way to get him to eat something else? Please help me.

UPTIGHT MOM

DEAR MOM: Leave the boy alone and don't hassle him. Many children go through such phases. In due time he'll get over it and eat other foods. Try your pediatrician again. By this time, he's finished with the boy with the nickle up his nose.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 50-year-old man who is being married for the first time. The lady is my age, and she has been married once before. She has told me that she does not want the word "obey" in our marriage ceremony. I think it is just part of the traditional vows, and nobody is expected to "obey" another like a child or slave.

Is she within her rights to insist that the word "obey" be omitted from the ceremony? And if so, will you please send me a few samples marriage ceremonies? Hopefully we can find one we both agree on.

GETTING HITCHED

DEAR GETTING: Of course she's within her rights. Talk to the person who will perform the ceremony and make your wishes known. Instead of "love, honor and obey"—how about, "love, honor and cherish"?

CONFIDENTIAL TO MOE IN L.A.: Stick with that diet, and you'll soon win that no-belly prize!

Marshall, L.A. Stop Reds

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "That's when he's at his best," declared Los Angeles Dodger catcher Joe Ferguson after relief pitcher Mike Marshall faced the challenge of Johnny Bench and Tony Perez and eliminated it. So the Dodgers finally beat the Cincinnati Reds 5-2 in the Los Angeles home baseball opener after bowing in Ohio three straight games. Elsewhere on a slim major league schedule, the Chicago Cubs downed the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2, the Philadelphia Phillies edged the New York Mets 4-3, the San Diego Padres shaded the San Francisco Giants 3-1 and the Oakland A's nipped the Kansas City Royals 3-2 in the only American League contest. The Dodgers-Reds final score was 5-2 and it was the same in the eighth inning when Cincinnati had three men

Logan Elm Edges Amanda-Clearcreek

Rod Black's single in the bottom half of the seventh inning scored Tim Fouch from second base to give Logan Elm a 2-1 win over Amanda-Clearcreek in the Mid State League. It was a pitcher's duel all the way between two sophomores. The Aces' Cloyce Hartley lost a heartbreaker. He allowed only three hits, walked seven and struck out three in seven innings. Tim Justus turned in his best performance of the year for the Braves, giving up only two hits, singles by Hartley and Jim Destadio, fanning eight and walking four. The game was scoreless the first four and a half innings and then LE went ahead in the bottom of the fifth, when Mark Skinner led off with a walk, was sacrificed to second, and scored on Scott Pontius' single after Randy Pontius and Greg Justus had walked to load the bases. The Aces tied the game in the top of the sixth. Thompson walked to lead it off, Destadio singled, Cassill hit a ground ball to Justus on the mound who threw to third for the force out, Starnier hit into another force out at third, Smith walked and then Cassill scored on an error. In the bottom of the seventh, pinch hitter Tim Fouch walked and advanced to second on a wild pitch to set the stage for Black's single to center. Black got two of the Braves' three hits and Scott Pontius the other.

Toros Top Mariners In WHA, 5-2

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Toros sent rookie Lou Nistico to check San Diego star Andre Lacroix and the rookie came up with a three-point bonus in World Hockey Association playoff action Monday night. Nistico and linemates Gavin Kirk and Tom Martin accounted for three goals in the Toros' 5-2 victory over the Mariners while Lacroix managed only one assist in the whole game.

Elsewhere around the Mid State League, Bloom-Carroll stayed in first place with a 10-0 shutout over Millersport, Rick Underwood hurled a no-hitter in Liberty Union's 6-2 victory over Pickerington, Canal Winchester stopped Fisher Catholic 6-4 and Fairfield Union exploded for an 18-9 win over Berne Union. Bloom Carroll has a 4-0 record in the Mid State. The Braves are in a 3-way deadlock for second with Liberty Union and Fairfield Union, all with 3-1 records. Overall, Logan Elm's record is 9 wins and one loss. Tonight the Braves travel to Teays Valley. Derek Morris is slated to start on the mound for LE.

"That line's job was to check Lacroix's line and they came up with three goals," said Toros' Coach Bob Leduc. "That's a plus three. They didn't have any against them."

The victory cut San Diego's lead in the best-of-seven quarter-final series to 2-1. The fourth game will be played here Wednesday night.

Playoff action tonight sees the Quebec Nordiques looking to make it a four-game sweep over the Roadrunners at Phoenix while the Minnesota Fighting Saints, leading 2-1, play host to the New England Whalers and the Houston Aeros, also leading 2-1, visit the Cleveland Crusaders.

Nistico scored two goals to run his playoff total to four and Kirk got the other score for the line which led Toronto to a 2-0 lead after the first period and 4-2 after the second.

LE Girls Top Aces, 23-22

The girls from Logan Elm nipped Amanda-Clearcreek, 23-22, in eight innings on the Aces' diamond Monday.

The Logan Elm softball team is now 2-0 in Mid-State League play and will host Pickerington 6 p.m. Thursday. Diane Martin hurled all the way for winners.

Annette Roof paced the Braves attack. She led off in the first inning with a home run and added a triple, double and pair of singles. Other hitters for the Braves were: Hope Justice, home run, triple and single; Joyce Pine, two singles; Diane Martin, double; Christa Gifford two singles; Monica Payne, single, Beth Bell, grand slam homer and triple; Debbie Betz, two singles; Pat Martin, single; Rita Karshner, home run; and Tina Woods, three singles. The winning run came in the top of the eighth when Beth Bell led off with a triple, two strikeouts followed but with two down Tina Woods slammed a single to plate the winning run.

The Aces had two runners on in the bottom of the eighth but Annette Roof made a fine running catch of a fly ball to end the game. Logan Elm led 19-6 in the sixth inning but the Aces narrowed the gap with 10 markers in the sixth.

Female Tigers Lose To Lions

Circleville's girls softball team staged a late inning rally but fell short as they dropped an 18-16 contest to visiting Washington C. H.

Sue Crist was on the mound for Circleville, allowing 27 hits, two walks and fanning three.

Hitting for the female Tigers were: Wanda Boyd, single and two doubles; Julie Johnson, two singles and a double; Sue Radcliff, three singles; Darla Hughes, two singles, a double and triple; Linda Holveck, single and triple; Cathy Armstrong, two singles; Cindy Dayhoff, double; Pam Pontious, double; Sue Crist, two singles; Cindy Tucker, single; Kim Bensonhaver, two singles; Penny Connell, single; Sue Stevenson, single; and Molly Hamrick, single.

Both teams had big innings. The Blue Lions scored six runs in the first and eight in the third while the Tigers battled back with five markers in the sixth and seven more in the seventh.

Circleville is now 0-3 and will be at Miami Trace 4:30 p.m. Thursday.

on base, one out and the power-hitting Bench and Perez coming to bat.

Marshall, the Cy Young Award winner as the best National League hurler last season, struck out Bench and, after going 2-2 on Perez, got him to hit into a force play ending the inning.

Ron Cey and Jimmy Wynn blasted homers for the Dodgers off Cincinnati starter Jack Billingham in the first of the four-game series at Los Angeles.

Yet the key to the game had to be Iron Mike Marshall, the reliever who pitched in a record 106 games for the Dodgers last season.

In relief of Doug Rau, he blanked the Reds for 2 2-3 innings.

"It's always a struggle when you face the Reds," Marshall said after the game. "I really had my work cut out for me, but I'm tickled pink whenever I'm out there. There's no greater thrill than to face the best in the world at whatever you're doing."

Cubs 4, Pirates 2

Rick Reuschel, Oscar Zamora and Darold Knowles teamed up on a six-hitter and pitched the Cubs over the previously unbeaten Pirates, who had been the only unbeaten team in the majors. It was the Cubs' fourth straight triumph since their only loss to Pittsburgh on opening day in Chicago.

Jerry Morales staked Reuschel to a 1-0 lead in the second inning when he homered off Bob Moose. The Cubs chased Moose with three runs in a fourth-inning spurt that included four singles plus a double by Steve Swisher.

Phillies 4, Mets 3

Mike Schmidt greeted reliever Jerry Cram with a leadoff home run in the ninth inning, capping a late rally that ruined the major league pitching debut of New York's Randy Tate. Tate breezed into the eighth with a three-hitter and a 3-0 lead. But he walked Larry Bowa with two out, Willie Montanez doubled for one run and Greg Luzinski tied the score with his fourth home run of the young season. Tate left for a pinch hitter in the top of the ninth.

Padres 3, Giants 1

Sonny Siebert pitched five innings of no-hit ball, then turned the mound over to Dave Tomlin and Bill Greif. Siebert limited the Giants to a first-inning walk and retired 14 straight batters before Dave Rader singled leading off the sixth.

Von Joshua and Thomas followed with singles to load the bases with one out but Tomlin came on and got Bobby Murcer to line back to the mound for an inning-ending double play. Bill Greif replaced Tomlin in the seventh and nailed down the victory, giving up only Gary Matthews' ninth-inning home run.

A's 3, Royals 2

Ken Holtzman pitched a six-hitter with last-out help from Rollie Fingers and Ted Kubiak drove in two runs with a double and a single. Kubiak doubled home a run in the second inning and singled in the tiebreaker in the sixth off Paul Splittorff. Kubiak has been subbing for shortstop Bert Campaneris, who suffered a back injury last week.

The A's picked up what proved to be the winning run in the ninth on Phil Garner's single, a stolen base by Allen Hopkins and Claudell Washington's single. That nullified a Kansas City run in the bottom of the ninth.

Westfall Reserves Down Circleville

Westfall reserve baseball team ran its season record to 2-0 with a 3-1 win over Circleville Monday.

Both teams collected four hits but the Tigers committed four errors in the contest.

Doug McGlone hurled for Circleville while Tony Simon was on the hill for the Mustangs.

Brian Fath, John Payne and Tim Hartinger collected the hits for Circleville while Simon aided his own cause with three hits.

The Tigers are now 2-2 and will host Chillicothe Monday.

TV Rally Tops Dublin

Teays Valley ran its Metropolitan League mark to 3-0 with a 5-4 win over visiting Dublin Monday. The Vikings are now 8-1 for the season.

It was a tough win for the Vikings as they had to come up with a three run rally in the bottom of the sixth to grab the decision.

The Blue and Gold jumped out to a 2-0 lead with single runs in the bottom of the first and second innings.

But Dublin exploded in the top of the fourth when they pushed all four of their markers across the plate.

Teays Valley tallied its three runs and the victory in the sixth on a two-run double by Ron Bumgarner and a walk to Steve Williams with the bases loaded.

Mark Messick went the first six innings for the Vikings. He allowed five hits, three walks and fanned two. Brad Stuthard pitched the final frame and retired three Dublin hitters in a row.

Cimenello opened on the hill for Dublin, giving up five hits, three walks and whiffing two. Townsend came on in the fifth to finish. He gave up one hit, walked seven and struck out three.

Terry Southers slammed a tremendous home run, Bumgarner slammed a pair of doubles, while Stuthard, Williams and Jim Baxter each added a single to the Viking attack.

Teays Valley committed two errors and Dublin had one.

The Vikings will host Logan Elm 4:30 p.m. today in a big battle.

Tigers Drop Tilt With Chillicothe

Circleville dropped a 5-3 decision to Central Ohio League leading Chillicothe Monday in a game played at Chillicothe City Park.

The Tigers opened the scoring in the top of the first with a single run on back to back hits by Pat McNaughton and Phil Roll.

But Chillicothe bounced back in the bottom of the frame with three big markers and never trailed again in the contest.

Circleville plated a single run in the top of the fourth on a hit by Dave Bevan and added another in the seventh when Pat McNaughton led off with a booming triple.

Chillicothe added single tallied in the fourth and fifth innings.

Biff Bumgarner was on the mound for the Red and Black. He gave up six hits, three walks and fanned six.

Red Kuhner handled the mound duties for Chillicothe, scattering eight hits, three walks while striking out two.

Roll and Jerry Strawser both had a pair of hits for the Tigers while Brent Mancini, Pat McNaughton, Randy Thomas and Bevan each had one hit.

Circleville is now 2-4 and will host Unioto Wednesday with Phil Roll on the mound.

Jack Nicklaus has the best average in Masters tournaments. In his first 60 rounds his stroke average per 18 holes is 71.47. Tom Weiskopf is second with 71.75 for 28 rounds.

schedule, the Chicago Cubs downed the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2, the Philadelphia Phillies edged the New York Mets 4-3, the San Diego Padres shaded the San Francisco Giants 3-1 and the Oakland A's nipped the Kansas City Royals 3-2 in the only American League contest. The Dodgers-Reds final score was 5-2 and it was the same in the eighth inning when Cincinnati had three men went ahead in the bottom of the fifth, when Mark Skinner led off with a walk, was sacrificed to second, and scored on Scott Pontius' single after Randy Pontius and Greg Justus had walked to load the bases.

The Aces tied the game in the top of the sixth. Thompson walked to lead it off, Destadio singled, Cassill hit a ground ball to Justus on the mound who threw to third for the force out, Starnier hit into another force out at third, Smith walked and then Cassill scored on an error.

In the bottom of the seventh, pinch hitter Tim Fouch walked and advanced to second on a wild pitch to set the stage for Black's single to center. Black got two of the Braves' three hits and Scott Pontius the other.

Elsewhere around the Mid State League, Bloom-Carroll stayed in first place with a 10-0 shutout over Millersport, Rick Underwood hurled a no-hitter in Liberty Union's 6-2 victory over Pickerington, Canal Winchester stopped Fisher Catholic 6-4 and Fairfield Union exploded for an 18-9 win over Berne Union.

Bloom Carroll has a 4-0 record in the Mid State. The Braves are in a 3-way deadlock for second with Liberty Union and Fairfield Union, all with 3-1 records.

Overall, Logan Elm's record is 9 wins and one loss. Tonight the Braves travel to Teays Valley. Derek Morris is slated to start on the mound for LE.

LE Girls Top Aces, 23-22

The girls from Logan Elm nipped Amanda-Clearcreek, 23-22, in eight innings on the Aces' diamond Monday.

The Logan Elm softball team is now 2-0 in Mid-State League play and will host Pickerington 6 p.m. Thursday.

Diane Martin hurled all the way for winners.

Annette Roof paced the Braves attack. She led off in the first inning with a home run and added a triple, double and pair of singles. Other hitters for the Braves were: Hope Justice, home run, triple and single; Joyce Pine, two singles; Diane Martin, double; Christa Gifford two singles; Monica Payne, single, Beth Bell, grand slam homer and triple; Debbie Betz, two singles; Pat Martin, single; Rita Karshner, home run; and Tina Woods, three singles.

The winning run came in the top of the eighth when Beth Bell led off with a triple, two strikeouts followed but with two down Tina Woods slammed a single to plate the winning run.

The Aces had two runners on in the bottom of the eighth but Annette Roof made a fine running catch of a fly ball to end the game.

Logan Elm led 19-6 in the sixth inning but the Aces narrowed the gap with 10 markers in the sixth.

Female Tigers Lose To Lions

Circleville's girls softball team staged a late inning rally but fell short as they dropped an 18-16 contest to visiting Washington C. H.

Sue Crist was on the mound for Circleville, allowing 27 hits, two walks and fanning three.

Hitting for the female Tigers were: Wanda Boyd, single and two doubles; Julie Johnson, two singles and a double; Sue Radcliff, three singles; Darla Hughes, two singles, a double and triple; Linda Holveck, single and triple; Cathy Armstrong, two singles; Cindy Dayhoff, double; Pam Pontious, double; Sue Crist, two singles; Cindy Tucker, single; Kim Bensonhaver, two singles; Penny Connell, single; Sue Stevenson, single; and Molly Hamrick, single.

Both teams had big innings. The Blue Lions scored six runs in the first and eight in the third while the Tigers battled back with five markers in the sixth and seven more in the seventh.

Circleville is now 0-3 and will be at Miami Trace 4:30 p.m. Thursday.

on base, one out and the power-hitting Bench and Perez coming to bat.

Marshall, the Cy Young Award winner as the best National League hurler last season, struck out Bench and, after going 2-2 on Perez, got him to hit into a force play ending the inning.

Ron Cey and Jimmy Wynn blasted homers for the Dodgers off Cincinnati starter Jack Bingham in the first of the four-game series at Los Angeles. Yet the key to the game had to be Iron Mike Marshall, the reliever who pitched in a record 106 games for the Dodgers last season.

In relief of Doug Rau, he blanked the Reds for 2 2-3 innings.

"It's always a struggle when you face the Reds," Marshall said after the game. "I really had my work cut out for me, but I'm tickled pink whenever I'm out there. There's no greater thrill than to face the best in the world at whatever you're doing."

Cubs 4, Pirates 2

Rick Reuschel, Oscar Zamora and Darold Knowles teamed up on a six-hitter and pitched the Cubs over the previously unbeaten Pirates, who had been the only unbeaten team in the majors. It was the Cubs' fourth straight triumph since their only loss to Pittsburgh on opening day in Chicago.

Jerry Morales staked Reuschel to a 1-0 lead in the second inning when he homered off Bob Moose. The Cubs chased Moose with three runs in a fourth-inning spurt that included four singles plus a double by Steve Swisher.

Phillies 4, Mets 3

Mike Schmidt greeted reliever Jerry Cram with a leadoff home run in the ninth inning, capping a late rally that ruined the major league pitching debut of New York's Randy Tate. Tate breezed into the eighth with a three-hitter and a 3-0 lead. But he walked Larry Bowa with two out, Willie Montanez doubled for one run and Greg Luzinski tied the score with his fourth home run of the young season. Tate left for a pinch hitter in the top of the ninth.

Padres 3, Giants 1

Sonny Siebert pitched five innings of no-hit ball, then turned the mound over to Dave Tomlin and Bill Greif. Siebert limited the Giants to a first-inning walk and retired 14 straight batters before Dave Rader singled leading off the sixth.

Von Joshua and Thomas followed with singles to load the bases with one out but Tomlin came on and got Bobby Murcer to line back to the mound for an inning-ending double play. Bill Greif replaced Tomlin in the seventh and nailed down the victory, giving up only Gary Matthews' ninth-inning home run.

A's 3, Royals 2

Ken Holtzman pitched a six-hitter with last-out help from Rolie Fingers and Ted Kubiak drove in two runs with a double and a single. Kubiak doubled home a run in the second inning and singled in the tiebreaker in the sixth off Paul Splittorff. Kubiak has been subbing for shortstop Bert Campaneris, who suffered a back injury last week.

The A's picked up what proved to be the winning run in the ninth on Phil Garner's single, a stolen base by Allen Hopkins and Claudell Washington's single. That nullified a Kansas City run in the bottom of the ninth.

Westfall Reserves Down Circleville

Westfall reserve baseball team ran its season record to 2-0 with a 3-1 win over Circleville Monday.

Both teams collected four hits but the Tigers committed four errors in the contest.

Doug McGlone hurled for Circleville while Tony Simon was on the hill for the Mustangs.

Brian Fath, John Payne and Tim Hartinger collected the hits for Circleville while Simon aided his own cause with three hits.

The Tigers are now 2-2 and will host Chillicothe Monday.

TV Rally Tops Dublin

Teays Valley ran its Metropolitan League mark to 3-0 with a 5-4 win over visiting Dublin Monday. The Vikings are now 8-1 for the season.

It was a tough win for the Vikings as they had to come up with a three run rally in the bottom of the sixth to grab the decision.

The Blue and Gold jumped out to a 2-0 lead with single runs in the bottom of the first and second innings.

But Dublin exploded in the top of the fourth when they pushed all four of their markers across the plate.

Teays Valley tallied its three runs and the victory in the sixth on a two-run double by Ron Bumgarner and a walk to Steve Williams with the bases loaded.

Mark Messick went the first six innings for the Vikings. He allowed five hits, three walks and fanned two. Brad Stuthard pitched the final frame and retired three Dublin hitters in a row.

Cimenello opened on the hill for Dublin, giving up five hits, three walks and whiffing two. Townsend came on in the fifth to finish. He gave up one hit, walked seven and struck out three.

Terry Southers slammed a tremendous home run, Bumgarner slammed a pair of doubles, while Stuthard, Williams and Jim Baxter each added a single to the Viking attack.

Teays Valley committed two errors and Dublin had one.

The Vikings will host Logan Elm 4:30 p.m. today in a big battle.

Tigers Drop Tilt With Chillicothe

Circleville dropped a 5-3 decision to Central Ohio League leading Chillicothe Monday in a game played at Chillicothe City Park.

The Tigers opened the scoring in the top of the first with a single run on back to back hits by Pat McNaughton and Phil Roll.

But Chillicothe bounced back in the bottom of the frame with three big markers and never trailed again in the contest.

Circleville plated a single run in the top of the fourth on a hit by Dave Bevan and added another in the seventh when Pat McNaughton led off with a booming triple.

Chillicothe added single tallied in the fourth and fifth innings.

Biff Bumgarner was on the mound for the Red and Black. He gave up six hits, three walks and fanned six.

Red Kuhner handled the mound duties for Chillicothe, scattering eight hits, three walks while striking out two.

Roll and Jerry Strawser both had a pair of hits for the Tigers while Brent Mancini, Pat McNaughton, Randy Thomas and Bevan each had one hit.

Circleville is now 2-4 and will host Unioto Wednesday with Phil Roll on the mound.

Celtics Whip Rockets, 123-106

BOSTON (AP) — John Havlicek, the Boston Celtics' elder statesman, felt "rejuvenated" and his teammates must have felt the same in making a whipping boy of the upstart Houston Rockets.

The Rockets, fresh from eliminating the New York Knicks in an opening-round upset, hoped they'd catch the Celtics stale after an eight-day layoff since the end of the regular season. The Celtics, led by Havlicek, quickly dispelled any such ideas and after a sluggish start rolled to a 123-106 victory over Houston Monday night in the opening game of their best-of-seven Eastern Division semifinal in the National Basketball Association

Nuggets Creep By Utah, 115-113

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — "I'm going to savor this," said an ecstatic Denver Coach Larry Brown. "We're fortunate to be in the second round." Brown was savoring the Monday night's 115-113 Nuggets victory over the Utah Stars in the American Basketball Association's Western Division playoff. It landed Denver in the upcoming series against an opponent still to be decided.

The victory capped the best-of-seven series at 4-2 and ended a frustrating season for the Stars.

Brown, who earlier in the day was named ABA Coach of the Year, says he doesn't want to think about his team's next opponent, either San Antonio or Indiana. "I'm just thankful to win," he said.

San Antonio took another step toward a possible upset Monday night by cutting Indiana's lead to 3-2 after trailing 3-0 in the other West Division series. Their 123-117 triumph over the Pacers gives them a chance at becoming the first ABA team ever to trail 3-0 and come back to win a playoff series.

The defending champion New York

Nets, hanging on for dear life, try to avoid elimination tonight in the fifth game of their East Division semifinal with the Spirits of St. Louis. The Kentucky Colonels await the winner of that series.

The Denver-Utah game wasn't decided until just before the final buzzer when Utah's Ron Boone, who led all scorers with 33 points, missed a layup that would have tied the score with five seconds left.

Ralph Simpson led Denver with 28 points. Mike Green added 25 and Mack Calvin chipped in 24 during a game in which neither team led by more than six points.

Utah started off cold, then overcame a five-point Denver margin near the end of the third quarter before taking its biggest lead at 95-90 midway through the final period.

Utah outrebounded Denver 47-37, but the Nuggets made 56 per cent of their shots to 48 per cent by the Stars.

Utah rookie Moses Malone scored 18 third-quarter points after only seven in the first half. He finished with 32, and led both clubs with 15 rebounds.

All-American Elmer Shotwell Both Legendary, Imaginary

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Elmer Shotwell could be another Jack Armstrong: the All-American sports hero, well-liked, a natural leader, a top student, president of the Letterman's Club.

But like Armstrong, Shotwell is an imaginary character, although you wouldn't know it if you read one publication's pick of this year's All-American high school basketball players. Shotwell's right there, identified by his coach as a great player and great person.

Phil Miller, basketball coach at Wainwright High School here, invented Shotwell earlier this year to prove that anyone — in fact, no one — could be a high school All-American. Miller sent in the legendary Shotwell's statistics to a Cambridge, Mass., firm, "High School All-Americans," that solicits prep players of All-American caliber.

The firm also sends the "All-American" an order form for an $18.95 book it sells, listing the players.

Miller made Shotwell a 6-foot guard who averaged 27 points and 12.8 rebounds a game and led Gladden Corner High School to the pinnacle of Hoosier basketball, personally gaining All Wea Creek Conference and Class C All-State honors.

Shotwell was also deemed president of the Gladden Corner Letterman's Club, and cited for various other school and civic achievements — all imaginary.

"I got suspicious of this company's offer when they asked me to nominate up to four of my players as high school All-Americans," Miller said. "That sounded kind of weird to me. Nobody has four All-Americans.

"I had an idea it was just one of these deals where they want to sell you a book. My daughter was named on one of these things, the Society of Distinguished American High School Students or something, last year. They just wanted to sell her a book with her name in it."

Sure enough, Miller said he got back a letter from a man who identified himself as editor of "High School All-Americans."

"They said Shotwell had been accepted after a committee had carefully screened his background," Miller said. "They wanted him to buy this book, and they implied it would be sent to all the college recruiters.

"They told him he was one of a select group of less than one per cent of all the nation's athletes to be selected."

Miller said any check would have shown not only Shotwell to be a fake, but also the "Wea Creek Conference" and even "Class C" to be frauds because there are no classes in Indiana prep basketball. Gladden Corner High School existed "about 60 years ago," he said.

"I think the whole thing is funny," Miller said. "But it's too bad, too, because it sort of takes away the meaning from the kids that really deserve recognition. I guess I could have nominated Charley Fastbreak with the same results."

Gary Ford Named Tops In Hockey

DETROIT (AP) — Center Gary Ford of the Muskegon Mohawks, who totaled 108 points over the regular season with 47 goals and 61 assists, today was named Most Valuable Player in the International Hockey League.

Rick Bragnalo of the Dayton Gems, who edged Ford by five points for the scoring championship, finished second in the voting by the 10 IHL coaches.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Doc O'Neal's four-over-par 144 carried Purdue to a three-stroke victory over Ball State in the annual Indianapolis Intercollegiate Golf championship at Coffin Golf Course on Monday.

Medalist honors went to Rich Lamb of third place Indiana State, with a 141. Another ISU player, Mike Cason, matched O'Neal's 144.

In Monday's other semifinal opener, the Golden State Warriors pounded the Seattle SuperSonics 123-96.

Havlicek, appearing in playoffs for the 11th time in winding up his 13th year with the Celtics, scored 30 points, grabbed five rebounds and had nine assists. With 3,211 points in 138 playoff games, he trails only Jerry West, Elgin Baylor and Wilt Chamberlain among the all-time scoring leaders in NBA post-season play.

"We were rejuvenated," the 35-year-old Havlicek said. "Guys like (Don) Nelson, (Paul) Silas and myself welcomed the layoff because of our age. I think others like Dave Cowens also came back fresher even though we practice hard."

The Celtics had trouble getting going in the opening minutes against the Rockets. However, they broke out of a 10-10 tie with the help of three field goals by Havlicek and were in front to stay.

"We were pretty sharp after eight days off," Boston coach Tom Heinsohn said. "That was may major concern. We played good defense. This was a big game for us, but we've got to win the next one Wednesday night or we lose the home court advantage."

"We can't afford any letdown. That club (Houston) looked bad against New York and came back to eliminate the Knicks. They can lull you to sleep and then croak you. We've got to play good basketball."

Coach Johnny Egan of the Rockets agreed.

"We can play better. We didn't have a good game," Egan said. "It's a whole new game Wednesday. We'll play better as the series progresses."

Warriors 123, SuperSonics 96

The layoff also helped Golden State's Rick Barry, who gunned in 39 points, had 10 assists and five steals to lead the Pacific Division champion Warriors past Seattle.

The Warriors' freshness showed in the second quarter when they made 76 per cent of their field goal attempts to outclass the tired Sonics, who came off a tough first-round series with the Detroit Pistons.

Leonard Gray topped the Seattle scorers with 20 points.

Spencer Haywood was used sparingly by the Sonics in the second half and wound up with 14 points.

Islanders, Penguins Clash In Playoffs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Penguins and the New York Islanders, both recent escapees from the National Hockey League's pushover class, meet again today in the second game of the Stanley Cup quarterfinals.

And Islanders coach Al Arbour is confident his team has enough calm and courage to spring back from its 5-4 loss to the Penguins Sunday.

Purdue Victorious In Golf Tournament

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Doc O'Neal's four-over-par 144 carried Purdue to a three-stroke victory over Ball State in the annual Indianapolis Intercollegiate Golf championship at Coffin Golf Course on Monday.

Medalist honors went to Rich Lamb of third place Indiana State, with a 141. Another ISU player, Mike Cason, matched O'Neal's 144.

Purdue recorded a 751 team score for the 36 holes, with Ball State at 754 and ISU back at 760.

Larry Herndon, an outfielder, is the youngest member on the roster of the St. Louis Cardinals. He'll be 22 on Nov. 23. He lives in Sunflower, Miss. He stole 50 bases for Arkansas in 1974.

All-American Elmer Shotwell Both Legendary, Imaginary

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Elmer Shotwell could be another Jack Armstrong: the All-American sports hero, well-liked, a natural leader, a top student, president of the Letterman's Club.

But like Armstrong, Shotwell is an imaginary character, although you wouldn't know it if you read one publication's pick of this year's All-American high school basketball players. Shotwell's right there, identified by his coach as a great player and great person.

Phil Miller, basketball coach at Wainwright High School here, invented Shotwell earlier this year to prove that anyone — in fact, no one — could be a high school All-American. Miller sent in the legendary Shotwell's statistics to a Cambridge, Mass., firm, "High School All-Americans," that solicits prep players of All-American caliber.

The firm also sends the "All-American" an order form for an $18.95 book it sells, listing the players.

Miller made Shotwell a 6-foot guard who averaged 27 points and 12.8 rebounds a game and led Gladden Corner High School to the pinnacle of Hoosier basketball, personally gaining All Wea Creek Conference and Class C All-State honors.

Shotwell was also deemed president of the Gladden Corner Letterman's Club, and cited for various other school and civic achievements — all imaginary.

"I got suspicious of this company's offer when they asked me to nominate up to four of my players as high school All-Americans," Miller said. "That sounded kind of weird to me. Nobody has four All-Americans."

"I had an idea it was just one of these deals where they want to sell you a book. My daughter was named on one of these things, the Society of Distinguished American High School Students or something, last year. They just wanted to sell her a book with her name in it."

Sure enough, Miller said he got back a letter from a man who identified himself as editor of "High School All-Americans."

"They said Shotwell had been accepted after a committee had carefully screened his background," Miller said. "They wanted him to buy this book, and they implied it would be sent to all the college recruiters."

"They told him he was one of a select group of less than one per cent of all the nation's athletes to be selected."

Miller said any check would have shown not only Shotwell to be a fake, but also the "Wea Creek Conference" and even "Class C" to be frauds because there are no classes in Indiana prep basketball. Gladden Corner High School existed "about 60 years ago," he said.

"I think the whole thing is funny," Miller said. "But it's too bad, too, because it sort of takes away the meaning from the kids that really deserve recognition. I guess I could have nominated Charley Fastbreak with the same results."

Gary Ford Named Tops In Hockey

DETROIT (AP) — Center Gary Ford of the Muskegon Mohawks, who totaled 108 points over the regular season with 47 goals and 61 assists, today was named Most Valuable Player in the International Hockey League.

Rick Bragnalo of the Dayton Gems, who edged Ford by five points for the scoring championship, finished second in the voting by the 10 IHL coaches.

NEW YORK (AP) — Miss MacClaine explores the dramatic changes — particularly for women — the revolution has wrought.

Take a look at it, even if you feel she may be a victim of a Chinese snow job, if not snow peas.

The film, "The Other Half of the Sky," was made during a three-week tour Miss M., her camera crew and seven other American women of varied background took in 1973 at the invitation of the Chairman Mao & Co.

Some critics have dismissed her much-publicized show as sort of a Hollywood-flavored chop-chick. Others found it a brilliant display of truth and light by a feminist who just happened to be a famous actress.

I, pardon the personal difference, find neither claim accurate.

The show leaves more unanswered questions than a Senate grilling of a Mafioso, but does give fascinating personal glimpses of attitudes formed in just over a generation of national rule by People's Republic.

The 75-minute film commences with quick sketches of the women accompanying Miss MacClaine on the tour. They range from a George Wallace fan to a psychologist who has written extensively about sexual freedom.

Amid the now-obligatory skepticism, it does engage the views of smiling faces, tidy mind as few China shows streets and colorful activities, have.

And what happens to the individual who creates for himself?

"We organize such a person into the study of the works of Marx, Engels, Lenin, Stalin, chick. Others found it as well as Chairman Mao's works, in order to foster the idea of serving the people," she is told.

A chilling answer. But she doesn't pursue the fate of hard individualists, be they artists, writers, doctors or scientists. Nor does she try to find out if and where dissidents are doing their thing.

And although the only place her group couldn't visit was a film studio, she neglects to take a gander at the massive Chinese military machine and what it's been up to lately at home and next door.

Despite these curious omissions, Miss MacClaine has come up with a worthwhile show. While not hard-hitting and lacking in healthy skepticism, it does engage the views of smiling faces, tidy mind as few China shows streets and colorful activities, have.

Twisters Hammer Georgia, Florida

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms lingered over the Southeast today after pouring more heavy rains into Alabama and Georgia and spawning scattered tornadoes.

Forecasters looked for the rains to diminish along the south Atlantic Coast but continue in the Florida Peninsula.

Five twisters churned out of thunderstorms Monday in southern Georgia and northern Florida. Trees and power lines were torn down and homes and businesses were damaged in a 10-block section of Brunswick, Ga. Another funnel cloud dipped into the Pensacola, Fla., area, but damage was slight. No injuries were reported in any of the tornadoes.

Up to 5 inches of rain swamped isolated spots in south-central Alabama through Monday night. Nearly 3 inches drenched Montgomery and Mobile as well as Macon, Ga. Columbus, Ga., mopped up after 4 inches in 24 hours.

Rivers and streams were on the rise again for the second time in less than a week, but the National Weather Service said no severe flooding was expected.

Farther west, workers continued opening the gates of the huge Bonnett

Carre spillway above New Orleans. Their aim was to divert some of the waters of the swollen lower Mississippi River across marshlands, around the city and into Lake Pontchartrain.

While the diversion eased the strain on the levee at New Orleans, fishermen expressed concern that the surge of fresh water would threaten the salt-water oysters and shrimp and their livelihood.

The river level stood at 18 feet — five feet below the top of the levee — before the Army Corp of Engineers began opening the 350 gates on the spillway Monday.

Showers ranged out of the Southeast into the Middle Atlantic states and the Great Lakes region. Another pocket of showers sprinkled a broad area from the northern and central Pacific Coast to the northern Plains.

Snow and the expectation of gusty winds with drifting brought travel advisories for mountain areas of central and southern California.

Clear skies were confined to the southern Plateau, the southern Plains and New England.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 23 at Concord, N.H., to 80 at Miami, Fla.

Farmers Union Members Attend Leadership Seminar Held Here

Local members of the Ohio Farmers Union participated, in a leadership seminar at Circleville, April 1. It was one of a series of five such seminars held throughout the state during the week.

The seminar was planned by Jack Rose of Harrod, the president of the Ohio Farmers Union, and Charlie Nash of Leipsic, the Organization's Executive Director and Secretary.

Those from Pickaway County and Ross County who participated were: Eugene Mace, president, Terry Frey, vice president, and Betty Davis, secretary-treasurer of Ross County; Bernice Murphy, and Margaret Mace also of Ross County; Willard England, president of Pickaway County; Gene Patrick, vice president and Joan Patrick, secretary-treasurer; Ralph S. Hughes, Donald E. Leist, Roger H. May, William Duvall, Harold Gibson, Russell England, all from Pickaway County.

A broad range of problems affecting Ohio farmers were discussed. "We've first got to understand our problems and then we've got to do something about them," Charlie Nash told the group.

He reported that the drive to achieve a 10 percent cut in crop production in the face of current economic uncertainties for farmers is proceeding. Petitions were circulated and signed by participants.

Assisting in the session was Victor Ray of Denver, Colorado, Assistant to the National President of Farmers Union.

Ray said see-sawing commodity prices and rising production costs are creating the uncertainties that are causing farmers to decide to reduce production. "What this nation must have is a sensible government farm program," Ray said. He presented a plan that would stabilize farm prices at about 100 percent of parity, calling it "the Farmers Union plan for parity and abundance." Considerable discussion was held on how to get such a program through the Congress.

Ray said that it can only be accomplished through a strong grassroots movement of farm families. He urged participation by Farmers Union members in a forthcoming "Women-In-Action Fly-In" to Washington, D.C. the week of April 20.

Also discussed was the Ohio Farmers Union youth program, including camps to be held for July 27-30 and August 3-6, and a seminar for young farm couples to be held August 15-17.

Nash reported on the current status of farm legislation in Washington, D.C. He said, "Both the House and the Senate have passed emergency farm bills— neither of which is adequate. We've got to work for something better."

West Virginia Assembly Quits

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The West Virginia Legislature ended its extended session Monday after partially meeting the governor's objections to a $100 million road bond sale authorization.

Shortly before midnight, the lawmakers approved a compromise bill that would allow sale of the road bonds in $50 million installments, one anytime and the other in May 1976.

The votes were 27-1 in the Senate and 71-3 in the House. The bill now goes to Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr.

Appeals Court Hands Down Decision

The Fourth District Court of Appeals recently handed down a decision affirming part and reversing part of a decision made earlier in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

Involving David Scott Libert, the case was originally brought to this county from Allen County. Libert had made the motion for change of venue. He was tried by a jury here on two counts of selling hallucinogens, one count each of using an automobile for dispensing, using a dwelling for dispensing and possession of an hallucinogen.

He was found guilty on all five charges and sentences were imposed by the court.

The car in question was, however, forfeited by the court to the city of Lima. This was the only item reversed by the appeals court. The court found that in a case such as this, the disposition of the car should be handled in a civil action rather than as part of the criminal proceedings.

All other parts of the local court's original decision were affirmed.

Commissioners Release Issue I Funds To City

Pickaway County Commissioners Dick T. Tootle, Donald Strous and L. Robert Liston Monday approved the release of $17,000 in State Issue I funds to the city of Circleville.

The money was the balance not used in county projects, the improving of Long Street in Ashville and the Circleville-Tarleton Road overpass. It is to be used by the city on its Nicholas Drive Improvement, an Issue I approved project.

Commissioners also approved an application for the extension of the Pickaway County Prosecutors federally funded intern program. Of the total, 90 per cent is to be funded federally, five per cent by the state and five per cent by the county. The program is in the amount of $7,500.

Animal claims of $308 submitted by Clarence and Donald Maxson, Saltcreek Twp., and $84 by Walker Kuhlwein, Route 1, Ashville, were approved.

Francis Fraunfelter, custodian, Saltcreek Twp. School, Route 4, Kingston, told Deputy James Dixon that thieves climbed upon the north side of the building and entered through an unlocked widow.

According to the report taken by Deputy James Fite, Donald E. Neff., Blue Ribbon Milk Deliverymen found that the school had been entered when he arrived to make deliveries today.

The thieves apparently went to the lunch room area of the building and raised a window to gain entry.

Authorities are continuing investigation of the thefts.

A 3-foot by 12-foot double pane window, valued at $85, was damaged by vandals at the Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church, sometime between 9 p.m. Sunday and 6 p.m. Monday.

Robert Lloyd, janitor, told Deputy James Fite, that the vandals were in the church yard, located on Mohave Drive in Logan Elm Village, when they evidently threw a ball at the large window.

Damage was set at $150.

Youth In Fair Condition; Sideswipes Car With Bike

Herbert J. Myers Jr., 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Myers, Route 3, is in "fair" condition Tuesday in Children's Hospital, Columbus, as the result of injuries he suffered Monday afternoon in a bicycle-car accident.

Myers is recuperating from head and internal injuries in room 320.

Circleville Police said the junior high school student was riding his bicycle north on S. Pickaway St. when he sideswiped a car driven by Douglas A. Kneece, 18, Route 4.

Kneece told officers Bill Pontious and Mike Everhard that he was traveling south on S. Pickaway St. when the Myers youth apparently pulled his bike left of the center line at the Pearl St. intersection.

Kneece attempted to turn his car to the right, but Myers struck the left side of his car. Impact knocked him from the bike and through the windshield of the car. He also struck the windshield post on Kneece's Pontiac Catalina and knocked off the rearview mirror.

The auto, which was traveling about 30 miles an hour according to Kneece, left skid marks of 48 feet before coming to rest about six feet from the fence surrounding the football field at the junior high school.

Myers was treated initially at Berger Hospital's emergency room shortly after the 3:27 p.m. accident. He was then transferred to Children's Hospital.

Twisters Hammer Georgia, Florida

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms lingered over the Southeast today after pouring more heavy rains into Alabama and Georgia and spawning scattered tornadoes.

Forecasters looked for the rains to diminish along the south Atlantic Coast but continue in the Florida Peninsula.

Five twisters churned out of thunderstorms Monday in southern Georgia and northern Florida. Trees and power lines were torn down and homes and businesses were damaged in a 10-block section of Brunswick, Ga. Another funnel cloud dipped into the Pensacola, Fla., area, but damage was slight. No injuries were reported in any of the tornadoes.

Up to 5 inches of rain swamped isolated spots in south-central Alabama through Monday night. Nearly 3 inches drenched Montgomery and Mobile as well as Macon, Ga. Columbus, Ga., mopped up after 4 inches in 24 hours.

Rivers and streams were on the rise again for the second time in less than a week, but the National Weather Service said no severe flooding was expected.

Farther west, workers continued opening the gates of the huge Bonnett

Carre spillway above New Orleans. Their aim was to divert some of the waters of the swollen lower Mississippi River across marshlands, around the city and into Lake Pontchartrain.

While the diversion eased the strain on the levee at New Orleans, fishermen expressed concern that the surge of fresh water would threaten the salt-water oysters and shrimp and their livelihood.

The river level stood at 18 feet — five feet below the top of the levee — before the Army Corp of Engineers began opening the 350 gates on the spillway Monday.

Showers ranged out of the Southeast into the Middle Atlantic states and the Great Lakes region. Another pocket of showers sprinkled a broad area from the northern and central Pacific Coast to the northern Plains.

Snow and the expectation of gusty winds with drifting brought travel advisories for mountain areas of central and southern California.

Clear skies were confined to the southern Plateau, the southern Plains and New England.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 23 at Concord, N.H., to 80 at Miami, Fla.

Farmers Union Members Attend Leadership Seminar Held Here

Local members of the Ohio Farmers Union participated, in a leadership seminar at Circleville, April 1. It was one of a series of five such seminars held throughout the state during the week.

The seminar was planned by Jack Rose of Harrod, the president of the Ohio Farmers Union, and Charlie Nash of Leipsic, the Organization's Executive Director and Secretary.

Those from Pickaway County and Ross County who participated were: Eugene Mace, president, Terry Frey, vice president, and Betty Davis, secretary-treasurer of Ross County; Bernice Murphy, and Margaret Mace also of Ross County; Willard England, president of Pickaway County; Gene Patrick, vice president and Joan Patrick, secretary-treasurer; Ralph S. Hughes, Donald E. Leist, Roger H. May, William Duvall, Harold Gibson, Russell England, all from Pickaway County.

A broad range of problems affecting Ohio farmers were discussed. "We've first got to understand our problems and then we've got to do something about them," Charlie Nash told the group.

He reported that the drive to achieve a 10 percent cut in crop production in the face of current economic uncertainties for farmers is proceeding. Petitions were circulated and signed by participants.

Assisting in the session was Victor Ray of Denver, Colorado, Assistant to the National President of Farmers Union.

Ray said see-sawing commodity prices and rising production costs are creating the uncertainties that are causing farmers to decide to reduce production. "What this nation must have is a sensible government farm program," Ray said. He presented a plan that would stabilize farm prices at about 100 percent of parity, calling it "the Farmers Union plan for parity and abundance." Considerable discussion was held on how to get such a program through the Congress.

Ray said that it can only be accomplished through a strong grassroots movement of farm families. He urged participation by Farmers Union members in a forthcoming "Women-In-Action Fly-In" to Washington, D.C. the week of April 20.
